REPORT

From the NATIONAL VACCINE ESTABLISHMENT to Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department.

TO THE RIGHT HONOURABLE LORD JOHN RUSSELL,
SECRETARY OF STATE FOR THE HOME DEPARTMENT.

MY LORD,

THE amount of deaths by Small-pox this year, within the bills of mortality, has been less than in any former one since Vaccination was first promulgated; but we are sorry to say that the disease has prevailed with its usual mortality in several parts of the country.

The apathy under which some thoughtless people wait until danger from Small-pox be at their very door; the unreasonable distrust of others of the protective power of Vaccination (notwithstanding the satisfactory experience of more than 40 years over millions of mankind), and the artful schemes of unworthy inoculators, who avail themselves of such ill-grounded fears—all these circumstances contribute to countenance and to keep up the practice of inoculation; by which a perpetual source of contagion is supplied, to the great danger of those who have not already had the disease, or have not been vaccinated properly.

A notion has been entertained by not a few, that the Vaccine matter has lost its influence by time; but this is not supported by the analogy of any other poison. The virus of Small-pox itself has lost nothing of its force in the course of 200 years; and we are enabled to state a strong fact, with perfect confidence, in proof of the efficacy of the Vaccine matter at present, viz., that of more than 70,000 vaccinated in descent with successive portions of the matter originally collected by Dr. Jenner, 38 years ago, Vaccination has manifested its peculiar influence in all; though of this number some hundreds have been subjected to the severest trials by exposure to Small-pox in its most fatal form.

No, it has not worn out its protecting property. The rarity of an example of disfigurement by Small-pox now to be found in the theatres, in churches, or any large assemblage of the people, affords some proof of this; but unfortunately, it was propounded by its original discoverer too broadly, in recommendation of the novelty of Vaccination, that any person might perform the operation successfully, when, as we confess, and desire to have it made known, that, to do justice to the merit of Vaccination, it ought to be performed by well-instructed and skilful surgeons, who are able to discover whether there be any temporary ill prevailing in the habit of the patient to be submitted to it, in the form of a slight cutaneous eruption (for this will often render the body unsusceptible, for a time, of effectual Vaccination); whether the prevalence of any epidemic disease may interfere with the success of the process; for it has been remarked by several experienced Vaccinators, that the influenza of last year did make it necessary to repeat Vaccination more than once or twice before it took its proper effect.

Merely to have been vaccinated has satisfied multitudes of those who apply to our establishment for this protection against Small-pox; and we cannot help lamenting that it is so difficult to prevail upon parents to bring back their children,

dren, at a proper distance of time, to ascertain whether the operation has been successful, or requiring to be repeated to ensure its efficiency.

rd has been unremittingly occupied, and has supplied 20,000 charges of lymph more than it has sent out in the course of any former one; and not only have our Army and Navy, and the Colonies, been supplied, but most of the capitals of Europe have availed themselves occasionally of our resources, in which they express their entire confidence.

We have, &c.

— 2. —

COPIES of all Communications between the Irish Government and the Board of Charitable Donations and Bequests, respecting the Constitution of said Board, from the Year 1830 to the Year 1838.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 27 December 1833.

I am commanded by the Lord Lieutenant to transmit to you the enclosed Extracts from several Minutes of the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, and to desire that you will communicate to the Board of Charitable Donations and Bequests his Excellency's request, that they will as soon as possible favour me with any observations they may think fit to make on the suggestions which the extracts contain.

I am, &c.
(signed) E. J. Littleton.

William P. Mathews, Esq.
Secretary, &c.

Extract of Treasury Minute, dated 11th November 1831.

Board of Charitable Bequests.

The Select Committee recommend that the laws for regulating the recovery of Charitable Bequests should be revised and amended, and it would appear from the evidence subjoined to the Report that one of the matters then requiring amendment was the exclusive character of the Board, consisting as it now does wholly of the members of the Established Church. As it must necessarily be the duty of the Board to take cognizance of charitable trusts relating to Dissenters, both Roman-catholic and Protestant, my Lords conceive that this subject is one that merits the serious consideration of the Irish Government.

Extract from Treasury Minute, dated 30th March 1832.

Transmit to Mr. Stanley a copy of the Minute of this Board of the 11th of November last, on the subject of this establishment, and request that he will favour my Lord Lieutenant of Ireland thereon.

* * * * * *

My Lords will propose the usual estimate for 700 l.; but before the vote is taken they request some further information on the points to which they have adverted.

Extract from Treasury Minute, dated 8th November 1833.

My Lords request Mr. Littleton to call the special attention of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant to their Minute on the subject of the Board of Charitable Bequests, and to the necessity of recommending to Parliament such an alteration of the law as may divest that Board of its exclusive religious character. Considering the general supervision exercised by the Commissioners over all charities, whether relating to the Established Church, to Protestant Dissenters, or to Roman-catholics, my Lords submit to the Irish Government the strong necessity of submitting to Parliament a Bill founded on the principles to which they have adverted.

Board Room, Treasury Chambers,
Sir, Dublin Castle, 31 Dec. 1833.

The Commissioners of Charitable Donations and Bequests met this day, pursuant to special notice, to take into consideration your letter of the 27th instant, enclosing, by command of the Lord Lieutenant, Extracts of Minutes of the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury relative to this Board, bearing date the 11th November 1831, 30th March 1832, and 8th November 1833. Those several documents having been read, the Commissioners passed a Resolution, which, by their order, I do myself the honour of communicating to you for his Excellency's information.

Resolved:—That this Board is ready to promote any arrangement which may tend to carry into execution the objects for which it was originally constituted.

I have, &c.
The Right Hon. E. J. Littleton, (signed) W. P. Mathews, Sec.

BY THE LORD LIEUTENANT OF IRELAND IN COUNCIL.

MULGRAVE.

WHEREAS by an Act of Parliament passed in the first year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled, "An Act to provide more effectual Means to make Treasurers of Counties and Counties of Cities in Ireland account for Public Monies, and to secure the same," it is, amongst other things, enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland in Council to make such Rules or Regulations as to the said Lord Lieutenant in Council should seem fit, for regulating the Audit of the Accounts of such Treasurers, and for other purposes in said Act particularly set forth and mentioned: And whereas the said Lord Lieutenant hath, by virtue of the powers given to him in and by the said Act, annexed the duty of auditing the said Accounts to the office of Chief Remembrancer of Her Majesty's Court of Exchequer in Ireland: Now WE, the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, in pursuance of the powers vested in us by said recited Act, do hereby, in Council, Order and Declare, That the following Rules and Regulations, which we have made for regulating the Audit of the Accounts of Treasurers of Counties and Counties of Cities and Towns in Ireland, and for the other purposes therein stated, shall be deemed and taken as and for the Rules and Regulations which we are authorized in Council to make as aforesaid, by virtue of said recited Act; and that from henceforth the same shall be obeyed and followed by all and every person concerned therein.

1st RULE.

THE Treasurer of every County and County of a City or Town in Ireland shall, before the 1st day of December next, make out and transmit to the said Chief Remembrancer a just and true Account between him and the County or County of a City or Town in Ireland for which he acts, and which shall be made out at foot of the last Account which he has passed according to law, and he shall transmit therewith proper vouchers for his Receipts and Payments; and he shall make out and transmit a like Account, with such vouchers as aforesaid, to the said Chief Remembrancer, within One Month from the termination of every Assizes which shall be holden for the County or County of a City or Town in Ireland for which he acts.

2d RULE.

EACH such Treasurer as aforesaid shall forthwith open a public Account with the Bank of Ireland, for the purpose of depositing in such Bank the public money of the County or County of a City or Town, as the case may be, for which he acts, and shall continue to keep such Account with the said Bank, unless another Bank shall be appointed for that purpose by the Grand Jury of such County, or County of a City or Town; and if such other Bank shall be appointed, he shall transfer such Account thereto, together with any balance which may be due by him thereupon.

3d Rule.

The Clerk of the Crown of each County or County of a City or Town shall cause the Copy of each Account audited and declared by the said Chief Remembrancer, which shall be transmitted to him as by the said Act directed, to be printed and published in such manner as Queries and Presentments have been or heretofore ought to have been according to law.

4th Rule.

It shall be the duty of every such Treasurer as aforesaid, within Two calendar Months after a Copy of any such Account as aforesaid shall have been transmitted to him, audited pursuant to the provisions of the said Act, to pay into the Bank with which he shall have such Account as aforesaid, any balance which may appear due by him thereupon, unless he or the Clerk of the Crown of the County or County of a City or Town, who is hereby authorized on behalf of the said County or County of a City or Town so to do, shall present a Petition to the Lord Lieutenant in Council, certified to be a proper Petition by one of Her Majesty's Counsel, within One Month after such Account shall have been transmitted as aforesaid, praying that the same may be altered; and if such Petition shall be presented, it shall be the duty of such Treasurer to pay any balance which may be declared due on such account by any Order to be made on such Petition within One calendar Month after the making thereof; and he shall transmit to the Chief Remembrancer a certificate of his having duly paid any balance payable by him as aforesaid within Eight Days after the time at which he is required to pay the same in and by this Rule.

5th Rule.

No Collector of Grand Jury Cess shall make any payment to the Treasurer of the County or County of a City or Town for which he acts for or in respect of any public money which he may receive, or which may come to his hands otherwise than by lodging the same from time to time in the Bank with which such Treasurer shall have such a public Account as aforesaid, to the credit of such public Account.

6th Rule.

All Monies which shall be raised or levied by virtue of any sequestration or Levari facias which may be issued against any Treasurer under the provisions of said recited Act, shall, as in the 5th Rule, be paid into such Bank as aforesaid, to the credit of such public Account as aforesaid.

7th Rule.

Each and every payment to be made by any such Treasurer as aforesaid, where the sum shall exceed Ten Pounds sterling in amount, shall be paid by a Draft drawn on such Bank as aforesaid by such Treasurer in favour of the person entitled to receive the same or his Order, and such Draft shall be countersigned by the Clerk of the Crown for the County or County of a City or Town for which he acts or his deputy, and shall contain in the body of such Draft a specification of the purpose for which and of the authority under which such Draft shall be drawn.

11th Rule.

Forasmuch as it hath been found necessary for the purposes of the said Act, that is to say, for the purpose of annexing the duty of auditing the said Accounts to the said office of Chief Remembrancer, to transfer certain duties therefrom to the office of the Second Remembrancer exclusively, and to which transfer, Acheson Lyle, Esquire, who now holds the said Office of Second Remembrancer, hath consented, upon an understanding that he should receive remuneration to the amount of Five hundred Pounds sterling per annum for the additional trouble so cast upon him; and that the said remuneration should be charged upon the said Fee Fund; it is necessary for the purposes of the said Act to order, and it is therefore hereby Ordered, That the said Fee Fund shall be charged with an Annuity of Five hundred Pounds, which shall be payable to the said Acheson Lyle, Esquire, so long as he shall continue to hold the said office; and the same shall commence and be payable thereout quarterly from the date hereof.

12th Rule.

FURTHER REPORT of Richard Griffith, Esq., dated 10 March 1837, on the Progress made in the Experimental Improvements at King William's Town, County Cork, and on the Costs thereof.

King William's Town,
10 March 1837.

My Lord and Gentlemen,

IN the month of June last I had the honour to communicate to your Board a statement of the progress that had been made towards the completion of the new Cork and Kerry roads, accompanied by a report on the agricultural improvements that have been carried on under my direction at King William's Town, in the Crown Lands of Pobble O'Keefe, in the County of Cork; I have now to make a further report relative to those works.

Having already in former reports described at some length the position and nature of the district in which the roads and improvements are situate, it will be unnecessary further to dwell on that subject at present.

In my last report I mentioned that the whole of the new roads, for a length of 43 miles, were completed, and open to the public, with the exception of 10 miles, extending between the town of Castle Island and the Hill of Knocknabowl, in the county of Kerry; I have now the pleasure to state that this portion of the road is nearly finished. It has been open to the public for some months; but, owing to the unusual wetness of the autumn and winter, it has been impossible to complete it in all its details; but I expect to be enabled to do so by the beginning of May next.

During the winter the traffic on the new road from King William's Town to Cork has been constant, and is rapidly increasing; and I have no doubt that as soon as the road to Castle Island shall have been fully completed, that the agricultural traffic from Tralee to Cork will be very considerable.

In respect to the passenger traffic, preparations are now being made for the establishment of two stage-cars from Tralee, by King William's Town, to Cork; and thus the district between Castle Island and Cork, which, previously to the commencement of the works, was nearly waste and quite inaccessible, except to persons travelling on foot, will become the scene of active agricultural improvement, and the direct line of thoroughfare from Tralee, the capital of the county of Kerry, to the city of Cork.

I am happy to say that those parts of the road that have been completed are in excellent order. The usual load for a single-horse cart is about 20 cwt., and some horses draw 22 cwt. On the ordinary country roads, 12 cwt. is considered to be a heavy load for one horse. It should be borne in mind that the climate of the district through which these roads have been made is extremely moist; that the soil is of a wet, clayey nature; and that the sandstone, which is the only material that the country produces, is not a durable stone for metalling a road, being easily crushed by heavy carriages; it is therefore pleasing to observe, owing to the great pains taken in the original formation of the roads, to insure a perfect drainage and a rapid discharge for the water, that the surface has continued dry and firm during an unusually wet winter, though the traffic, particularly on the southern portion, has been very considerable, and of the most injurious kind, consisting principally of strings of loaded carriages, frequently 20 in number, drawing limestone or culm, the whole following in the same track.

In respect to the expenditure on the roads, I have to observe, that the sum paid for work done from the commencement up to the 31st December 1836, amounts to - - - - - - - - - - - - - £.22,616 4 5½

| Total Amount of expected Residue - - - £. | | | | 1,096 7 6½ |

In my last report I mentioned that it would be desirable to commence the proposed road from King William's Town to Mount Infant as soon as possible, so as to open the district, as well as the estate, to the markets of Millstreet, Macroom, &c. In consequence, I have applied to the grand jury of the county of Cork for a presentment, at the nominal price of one shilling per perch, to enable me to open the road for a short distance near its termination at Mount Infant, where it passes through the estate of Mr. Cronin. I have no doubt the grand jury will grant the presentment, and I shall then commence the work without delay.*

The estimate for the road, which is 2 M. 0 F. 17 P. in length, amounts to 620*l.* 5*s.*, including bridges, gullets, &c.

Near the termination of this road at Mount Infant, it will be desirable to make a short branch road into the county of Kerry, to communicate with the limestone quarry at Carrindulkeen, held by the commissioners, under the Earl of Kenmare. Were this effected, there would be a level and tolerably direct road from those quarries to King William's Town, and to the southern portion of the estate generally. At present, the distance by the old and very hilly road from Carrindulkeen quarry to King William's Town is 6 M. 4 F., while by the new one the distance would be but 5 M. 2 F. The length of the branch from Mount Infant to its junction with the present road at Thureencahill Cross is 7 F. 3 P., and the estimate amounts to 276*l.* Thus the completion, both of the Mount Infant and the branch road leading to the limestone quarries, will amount to 896*l.*; and, as the expected residue from the original fund of 24,000*l.*, provided for the main lines of road between Castle Island and Cork, and Killarney and Mallow, amounts to 1,096*l.*, there will be ample means to effect these objects.

Of the Improvements on the Crown Lands.

IN my report of the month of June last, I entered so fully into the detail of the progress of all the works and experiments in progress, that at present, after an interval of but nine months, I have little of novelty to communicate.

The reclamation, consisting of levelling, draining, fencing, digging, or ploughing, burning the surface, claying and liming, has been continued, though with considerable siderable interruption, arising partly from a want of labourers, and partly from the unusual wetness and severity of the last autumn and winter.

In respect to the produce of the crops on those parts of the farm, the preliminaries for the reclamation of which had been completed, I regret to state, that the result has not been as favourable as I had anticipated. This has arisen solely from the constant rain in the autumn, and the long continuance of intense frost in the winter; but I must say, in justice to Mr. Boyan, the resident superintendent of the works, and to the zealous labourers acting under his direction, that though the return has been comparatively small, the corn and hay crops have been saved, while in the surrounding mountain district many farmers sustained almost a total loss, and even now, in the month of March, a large portion of the potatoe crop of last year remains in the ground undug. The extent of arable ground under crop, as stated in my report of the month of June last, amounted to - - - - - - 95 2 13

And the meadow land that had been drained, and partly limed on the surface, amounted to - - - - - - - 58 2 8

Making a Total of - - - - - 154 0 21

At present, the extent of arable ground reclaimed, and in preparation for crops, amounts to - - - - - 108 2 14

Of meadow land, drained, fenced, and manured with lime on the surface - - - - - - - - - - 45 3 13

And of land drained and fenced, but not yet manured - - 63 3 34

Total - - - - - 218 1 21

Progress of reclamation during the nine months, amounts to - - - 64 1 0

In respect to the value of the produce returned from the 95 A. 2 R. 13 P., of statute measure of land, which were under crop last year, I have to say that it amounts to 454*l.* 1*s.* 2*d.*, the detail of which is as follows:

Considering the extent of land under cultivation, the above sum of 454*l.* 1*s.* 2*d.* will be thought a very small return; but it should be remembered, that the greater portion of the crops were grown on land in progress of reclamation, more than one-half being the first crop raised from a naturally sour and unfruitful boggy soil, and, besides, the season, as already mentioned, was peculiarly unfavourable; so much so, that the oat-crop did not return more than one-third part of what had reasonably been expected; and, in respect to the turnips, of which there were upwards of 20 acres, one-half necessarily sown late from want of labourers, did not produce more than five tons to the acre, while the remainder, though a fair crop, was materially injured by the severity of the frost, which actually congealed the juices of the more watery varieties, and caused their decay.

Previously to the frost, some of the turnip-fields gave promise of a very good return; one of four acres, from an average portion of which the produce was weighed, yielded nearly 25 tons per statute acre; and in two other fields of three acres each, the produce amounted to 20 tons per acre; but one-sixth part of the whole, at least, was subsequently destroyed by the frost.

In respect to the expenditure on reclamation, cultivation, and buildings, between the 1st of April and 31st of December 1836, the gross amount under each head is as follows:

Statement of the Crops intended to be sown in the Year 1837.

As already mentioned, the extent of land that has been wholly or in part reclaimed amounts to 218 statute acres, which it is proposed to crop as follows:

| | A. | R. |
|---|---|---|
| Oats | 34 | 2 |
| Potatoes | 23 | 2 |
| Turnips | 10 | 0 |
| Rye | 6 | 3 |

| Mountain meadow, drained, fenced, and manured | 52 | 1 |
| Bog-land, drained and fenced, but not manured or ploughed | 79 | 0 |
| TOTAL | 218 | 0 |

Having thus described the nature and extent of the farming operations at King William's Town up to the present time, and also having given a statement of the sum expended in all accounts up to the 31st December 1836, it remains to be considered what course it will be advisable to follow, with a view to more extended improvements on the estate. Hitherto, with the exception of three farm-houses built, and some main lines of fences made for the purpose of dividing farms in the townlands of Upper and Lower Carragaunes, our whole attention has been devoted to the erection of buildings, and the improvement of lands in the farms attached to King William's Town, containing - - 375A. 3R. 0P.
And in the model farm - - - 372 0 8

TOTAL - - - 747 3 8

Sufficient has now been accomplished to establish the fact, that the reclamation can be effected, and at a rate which will return a fair profit for the sum invested; consequently, it would now appear to be desirable to make some arrangements for the improvement of every part of the estate.

As a preliminary, it will be necessary to lay out farm-roads through the estate, so as to connect the whole with the main roads already completed, and, next, to divide the land into farms, suited, in point of extent, to the nature of the land. Where it is comparatively of good quality, as in the southern portion of the estate, the farms may be small, say from 25 to 40 statute acres; but where the land is mountainous and boggy, they should be proportionably large, say from 40 to 80 acres in extent.

The roads being laid out, and the boundaries of the farms determined, proper sites should be selected for new farm-houses, which are absolutely necessary in all parts of the estate; and, lastly, an arrangement for the progressive improvement of the land may be made, which should unite the interest of the landlord with that of the tenant, on the principle that each should bear a portion of the expense, the tenant giving labour, on being paid for a certain portion of it by the landlord, the landlord supplying limestone, the tenant burning it, &c. This is a subject that will require serious attention and mature deliberation; but at this moment it is not necessary to dwell upon it further.

With respect to the farm-roads: having examined the grounds with a view to their position, it appears to me that one line should be laid out, nearly through the centre of the estate, commencing at a point on the Mount Infant road, near to the south bounds of Glencollins, and extending southward through the townland of Torreenglanaugh, and terminating near the southern boundary of the estate, in the townland of Torreenclassagh.

The second farm-road should commence at a point on the new road to Newmarket, in the lands of Torreencreagh, and extend in a northern direction, passing through the townlands of Upper and Lower Carragaunes, and terminating on the old road from Castle Island to Newmarket, on the bounds of the townland of Mingaunine.

I have also examined the estate, with a view to determine the number and size of the farm-houses and offices which it will be necessary to erect for the accommodation of the tenants, and I find that 36 will be required. This is a great number; but at present the farm-houses throughout the estate are mere hovels, and many are so much dilapidated as to endanger the lives of the tenants.

The

The Expense of executing these Works will be nearly as follows:

|---|---|---|---|
| Expense of making 2 M. 6 F. 10 P. of farm-road through the southern division of the estate, at 10 s. 6 d. per perch | 467 | 5 | – |
| Bridges and gullets on this road | 50 | – | – |
| Expense of making 1 M. 2 F. 10 P. of farm-road through the northern division of the estate, at 10 s. 6 d. per perch | 205 | 5 | – |
| Gullets on the road | 15 | – | – |
| Branch roads to farm-houses, at 2 l. per | 72 | – | – |
| Cost of erecting 36 farm-houses and offices, at an average of 60 l. | 2,160 | – | – |
| Cost of making a new boundary for the whole length on the eastern side of the estate, between the Crown Lands, the estate of Colonel Longfield, and others, 1,986 perches, at 1 s. 2 d. per perch | 115 | 17 | – |
| £. | 3,085 | 7 | – |

I must confess that the amount of this estimate is greater than I had anticipated; but all the calculations are made on the most moderate scale, and the number of houses mentioned will be required to meet the wants of the present tenants. I have no doubt, however, that, eventually, there will be no loss, and to desist would have a most injurious effect on the improvement of the country, by deterring others from undertaking similar works. The attention of all the landlords of the south of Ireland is now directed to the important experiments in progress on the Crown estate; everything that has been done is highly spoken of, and both the system of reclamation, draining, and the plans and elevations of the farm-houses have been imitated by the neighbouring proprietors. Turnip husbandry is gradually creeping into estimation among the mountain, as well as lowland farmers, and its advantage was strongly urged by some of the most skilful agriculturists, who attended the first meeting of a farming society lately established in the barony of Duhallow and county of Cork, in which the Crown Lands are situated; and the farmers were referred to the successful cultivation of turnips and other green crops at King William's Town, as a proof of the advantage to be derived from the extension of green-crop husbandry in the south of Ireland.

COPY REPORT of the COMMISSIONERS of HIS MAJESTY'S WOODS, &c., to the Lords of the Treasury, dated 28 April 1837, on the Progress made in the execution of the Works at King William's Town, and on the Costs thereof; and requesting authority to appropriate a further Sum of £.4,500 to the prosecution of them.

My Lords, Office of Woods, &c., 28 April 1837.

ON reference to the report of this Board, dated 12th February 1833, on the subject of the improvements proposed to be executed on the Crown estate, formerly described as the lands of Pobble O'Keefe, and now called King William's Town, in the county of Cork, your Lordships will find that, in recommending the adoption of the general scheme of the improvements prepared by Mr. Weale, subject to such modifications as might from time to time appear to be advisable, the Board expressed its opinion that it was expedient to limit, in the first instance, the expenditure to a sum not exceeding 6,000 l. on such portion of the improvements, consisting principally of labourers' works, as were intended to be executed within the first three or four years; and that afterwards, but only as circumstances should appear to justify a prosecution of the scheme, the rents and profits accruing from the property should be appropriated to the progressive execution of the improvements contemplated.

These suggestions being approved of, the Board was accordingly authorized by your Lordships, as signified by Treasury Letter, dated 12th March 1833, to apply such sums, as should from time to time be required for the proposed improvements, not exceeding in the whole the sum of 6,000 l., out of the growing income of the land revenues in Ireland.

Since that period, the improvements have been constantly in course of progressive execution; and very detailed reports of the works executed, and of the costs of them, have been periodically submitted to your Lordships, and laid before Parliament.

The above-mentioned sum of 6,000 l., appropriated to these services, being exhausted, and having lately received from Mr. Griffith, under whose immediate direction the works have been executed, a further report, dated 10th ultimo, we now submit the same to your Lordships' consideration, with the view of obtaining authority to apply an additional sum of 4,500 l. to the prosecution of the improvements.

In that report, Mr. Griffith states his expectation that the whole of the 43 miles of main lines of new public road, in the counties of Cork and Kerry, which we were empowered by the Act 2 Will. 4, c. 52, to construct, will be completely finished in the course of next month; and that, out of the funds provided by the Act, there will then remain an estimated surplus of 1,096 l., applicable to the construction of the intended public cross-road from King William's Town to Mount Infant, which will open a direct communication through the Crown property between the towns of Newmarket and Kanturk, situated northward of the main lines of public road; and the towns of Killarney, Millstreet, Macroom, &c., situated southward of those lines; including also a short branch road from it, near Mount Infant, to communicate with the limestone quarry at Carrigdulkeen, in the county of Kerry, held by this Board under the Earl of Kenmare; which sum of 1,096 l. he estimates will be fully sufficient to defray the costs of making those roads.

Mr. Griffith then details the results of the last year's experimental cultivation of such portions of the lands as are in progress of reclamation, and the particulars of his expenditure on the property from the 1st April to 31st December 1836, in continuation of the accounts thereof contained in his former reports.

From these accounts it appears that, from the commencement of the works, in the autumn of 1832, up to the end of last year, the gross expenditure in the improvement of this property amounted to the sum of 7,123 l. 13 s. 2 d., incurred for the following services; viz.

| In this Gross Expenditure of - - - £. | 7,123 | 13 | 2 |
| there are included the sums from time to time received on the sales made of the crops of the ground in progress of reclamation, and of stock fed and fattened on the produce thereof, amounting to - - - - - - - - - - - - | 564 | 7 | - |
| Thereby reducing the actual expenditure to - - £. | 6,559 | 6 | 2 |
| Amount of monies imprested to Mr. Griffith, under the authority of Treasury Letters, respectively dated 28th June 1832 and 12th March 1833 - - - - - - - - - - | 6,500 | - | - |
| Excess in Expenditure - - - £. | 59 | 6 | 2 |

At the period of making up this account, the estimated values of horses, cattle and produce, remaining disposable, and of the moveable railroad, implements, materials and other matters in store, with some household furniture, farming utensils, &c., purchased with monies charged in the account of gross expenditure, amounted amounted to about 500*l.*; which sum would be applicable, and probably more than adequate, to the discharge of all expenditure and charges incurred in excess of the above-mentioned sum of 6,500*l.* up to the time of making this report.

On consideration of this statement, your Lordships will observe that the sum of 3,296*l.* 19*s.* 9½*d.*, or about one-half of the entire expenditure, has been appropriated to the erection of permanent buildings, constructed with stone walls and slated roofs, and to plantations of timber trees and coppice wood, for the shelter of the reclaimed lands; and that the remainder of the sum of 6,500*l.*, imprested to Mr. Griffith, has been expended in reclaiming and cultivating land, and in defraying the charge of 195*l.* 15*s.* 8*d.*, for local management and incidents.

Having taken this review of the works executed, and of the costs thereof, Mr. Griffith submits his opinion, that the experience acquired in the progress of them has sufficiently proved the fact, that the reclamation of this extensive tract of wild mountain ground can be effected at a rate of charge which will return a fair profit for the sum invested in its improvement; and, consequently, that it is desirable to prosecute the undertaking. With this view he proposes immediately to proceed, as essential preliminaries to a further reclamation of the land, with the construction of two principal lines of farm or occupation roads through the estate, in a longitudinal direction, so as to connect the greater portion of the intended farm allotments with the main public roads already completed; and, after having determined the boundaries of the farms into which the lands shall be divided, and the sites of the houses and buildings required for the occupiers of them, to erect about 36 new farm-houses and offices, respectively adapted to the extent and quality of the several farms. The costs of these works, and of making a proper boundary fence along the entire length of the eastern side of the estate, he estimates at a sum exceeding 3,000*l.*

In addition to and concurrently with these services, we conceive it will be necessary and expedient to proceed with the drainage and inclosure of the new farms; with the formation of screen plantations of timber trees for shelter of the grounds from the cold stormy winds which prevail for a long period in that mountainous district, and with the construction of small limekilns throughout the property; and that, to provide for these objects and other incidental expenditure, a further sum of 1,500*l.* will be required.

The works already executed, and those now proposed to be proceeded with, are in strict conformity with the original scheme of improvement submitted by Mr. Weale, and approved of by your Lordships' Board; and, hitherto, we have not perceived any ground to induce us to recommend a departure from it in future. The course of proceeding he advised has been pursued, and found to be attended with the expected advantages. Much expense has been saved in professional charges for assistance and superintendence, by placing the execution of the works under the direction of Mr. Griffith, and the local establishment he required for the construction of the new Cork and Kerry roads; and at the same time an expeditious completion of these roads has been economically effected and greatly promoted, by the accommodation afforded to the persons employed on that service in a temporary occupation of the new buildings at King William's Town. From the concurrent opinions of numerous intelligent gentlemen who have occasionally inspected the works during their progress, we feel assured that the lands are capable of being brought into such productive cultivation as will fully realize the expectations suggested by Mr. Weale's first report on the subject. And although his conjectural estimate of the money it would require to carry into complete effect all the improvements he projected may be somewhat exceeded, yet, on a comparison of the actual expenditure with the intrinsic value of the improvements already effected, and considering that the works have been executed under every disadvantage of distance from supplies of necessary materials, and in the centre of an extensive mountainous district, unprovided with practicable roads, and for some time without any accommodation for the lodging and subsistence of the artificers employed, and where a body of skilful native labourers could not in the first instance be procured, we see reasonable ground to anticipate that the ultimate expenditure will not be found to exceed the amount of that conjectural estimate, in any degree that will disappoint the expectations which have been entertained of the undertaking yielding a full remunerative profit on the sums invested in the improvements generally.

Under these circumstances we feel no hesitation in advising your Lordships, that we should be authorized to proceed with the works now proposed to be undertaken, and to apply to those services a further sum of 4,500 l. out of the growing income of the land revenues of the Crown in Ireland under our management; which, added to the sum of 6,500 l. already expended as above mentioned, will make a net sum of 11,000 l. appropriated to the improvement of this extensive property.

We are, &c.

RETURN to an ORDER of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 3 April 1838;—for,

COPIES of the CORRESPONDENCE that took place between the Irish Government and the Dean of Derry, and also with Doctor M'Laughlin, Titular Bishop, and with Doctor M'Laughlin, Coadjutor to the same in Derry, relative to a Breach of the Law committed by certain Persons in the Churchyard of the Cathedral of Derry, on Sunday the 14th of January 1838.

My Lord, Deanery House, Derry.

I TAKE the liberty of forwarding to your Lordship the accompanying affidavit of a transaction which has caused not only the greatest disgust, but has called forth the highest possible expression of angry feeling among the Protestant population of this city and neighbourhood. I feel quite satisfied that the Protestants of Derry could not be induced a second time quietly to witness what they consider a desecration of the consecrated burial-ground of their forefathers. On the occasion in question the peace was preserved; but if the law be not respected, and the repetition of so offensive a ceremony prevented, I should fear consequences of a very lamentable nature. The Roman-catholic clergy are absolutely without excuse for thus transgressing against the law and outraging the feelings of the Protestant community, as they have a burial-ground adjoining their own chapel, where they are never interfered with, and where they may adopt any services or ceremonies they please. Under such circumstances, I trust your Lordship may perceive the necessity of ordering such steps to be taken, and such proceedings instituted as the law directs. I would beg to refer you to the 10 Geo. 4, c. 7, s. 26 & 38.

I hope your Lordship will excuse the liberty I have taken in making this application; but had I omitted so to do, I should feel that I had been guilty of a great dereliction of duty.

I have, &c.

The Right Hon. Viscount Morpeth, &c. &c. &c. (signed) Thomas B. Gough.

City and Liberties of Londonderry, to wit. } John Price, sexton of the cathedral church of St. Colomb, Londonderry, and James Shannon, of Londonderry, on the 15th day of January 1838, came before me, Thomas Kennedy, esq. one of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace for said city and liberties, and made oath that they were present at the funeral of the late Mrs. Cathcart, of Sugar-House-lane, in the said city, which took place in the churchyard of said cathedral shortly after three o'clock in the afternoon of Sunday the 14th of January, in the year of our Lord 1838; that deponents on that occasion observed an unusually large concourse of persons assembled, and at their head Doctor M'Laughlin, the coadjutor titular bishop of Derry, and the two officiating Roman-catholic priests of said city, Messrs. Monaghan and Dempsey; by one of the above, the Rev. Mr. Monaghan, certain funeral ceremonies were performed according to the usages of the Church of Rome, which, to the best of deponents' belief, had never been before performed in the consecrated burial-ground of the cathedral.

Deponents further state that the mode of proceeding with these ceremonies was as follows: Mr. Monaghan having placed upon his shoulders a coloured and embroidered vestment, and having, together with the said coadjutor bishop, priest, and Roman-catholics present, crossed and blessed themselves, so far as deponent can understand the signification of certain gestures of the hands and lips employed by them, proceeded to, and did pour a cup of water (as it appeared to be) into the grave where the body of the deceased was to be deposited. He then read and repeated from a book, in a language which deponents have reason to believe was Latin, after which he called upon those who were present to repeat a Pater Noster and Hail Mary for the soul of the deceased, in order to its release from such punishments as might yet remain to be undergone for debts undischarged in life (so far as they could comprehend the words), after which he three times in succession cession cast into the grave from a shovel (brought, as they understand, for the purpose, and not belonging to the sexton or gravedigger) a part of the clay which had been dug up from the said grave when it was opened; he then again read from the book as before. Throughout the proceedings, at different times, certain responses or parts of the service were recited by the persons around the priest who officiated. At the conclusion of the whole both the priests and the greater part of the people present crossed and blessed themselves. The said coadjutor to titular bishop and the other of said priests continued present during the entire service; and further deponents say not.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 25 January 1838.

I BEG to acquaint you that your letter to Lord Morpeth, enclosing an information with regard to a burial according to the rites of the Roman-catholic church, in the churchyard of the cathedral of Derry, was laid before the Lord Lieutenant, and by his Excellency's directions submitted to the law officers of the Crown, whose opinion upon the subject is now transmitted for your information and guidance:

"This is not a case within the provisions of the 10 Geo. 4, c. 7, s. 26, against the celebration of the rites of the Roman-catholic church out of the usual place of worship, if, as it is presumed, the officiating minister of the church, or whoever may be the dignitary authorized to permit interment in the churchyard, granted permission for the celebration of the funeral service there under the statute 5 Geo. 4, c. 25.

"This latter statute vests in such minister the power to regulate the time of celebrating such service, or to withhold permission altogether, if he think fit so to do; but the 10 Geo. 4, c. 7, s. 27, expressly protects the celebration of such service (if permitted) from the prohibition of the 26th section. It is therefore in the power of the proper authorities of the cathedral church to provide, if they deem it expedient, against the proceedings complained of in this case, or against their occurrence at times which may be inconvenient or unfit; and as to this particular transaction, no proceedings can be taken against the parties concerned, if (as has been assumed) permission was given for the celebration of the service."

Sir, Deanery House, Derry, 27 January 1838.

I HAVE had the honour of receiving your letter of the 25th instant, conveying to me the opinion of the law officers of the Crown relative to the infraction of the law by the Roman-catholic clergy in our cathedral churchyard; and, in reply, I beg leave to observe that this opinion has been given on a supposed state of the case, which I should conceive my letter to Lord Morpeth does not at all warrant, and which has no existence in fact, as no leave for the celebration of the Roman-catholic rites of burial was either given by me, or required from me by the Roman-catholic clergy. Such being the case, which I am willing to prove on oath, if necessary, it is evident they have acted illegally; and I would again beg to refer to the 10 Geo. 4, c. 7, s. 26. It is by no means wished to exclude the remains of our Roman-catholic fellow-citizens from interment in the grave-yard of the cathedral; and, for myself, I will say I have no desire to inflict the penalty on the Roman-catholic clergy for their breach of the law. But as the Lord Lieutenant has been pleased to take this transaction into his consideration, I would humbly submit, through you, to his Excellency, whether it is not unreasonable that such a congregation as attend the cathedral of Derry should be offended and disgusted on the Sabbath-day by the illegal exhibition of rites and ceremonies at their very church-door, which they consider superstitious and idolatrous; and whether they ought not at least to have some security that such would not be repeated repeated. Indeed, so great is their indignation at the transaction in question, that if it should occur again I would not take it on myself to answer for the lamentable consequences.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 17 February 1838.

I AM directed by the Lord Lieutenant to inform you, that a complaint has been made to his Excellency by the Dean of Derry, in the name of himself and his parishioners, that on Sunday the 14th ult. the rites of the Roman-catholic religion were performed by a Roman-catholic ecclesiastic in the churchyard of the cathedral of Derry.

The law officers are of opinion that in so doing the clergyman referred to has violated the law, and has rendered himself liable to be prosecuted for the penalty of 50 l., under the 26th section of the Act of 10 Geo. 4, c. 7.

His Excellency greatly regrets this proceeding, and considers that both the Dean and the Protestant parishioners have a right to complain of it, more especially as the Roman-catholics, according to the representation made to his Excellency, have a burial-ground adjoining their own chapel, where they are never interfered with, and where they may perform the services and ceremonies of their own church; and his Excellency will feel it his duty to put the law in force on this occasion, unless he shall receive from you very satisfactory assurances that the conduct complained of will not be repeated.

ADVERTING to the complaint preferred by you and certain of the Protestant parishioners of Derry, relative to an infraction of the law by Roman-catholic clergy in the churchyard of the cathedral, I am directed by the Lord Lieutenant to transmit, for your information, copy of a letter written by his Excellency's desire to the Roman-catholic bishop, and of his reply.

His Excellency having received this assurance on the part of the Roman-catholic bishop, considers that there is no further cause for apprehending a recurrence of the circumstance of which you and your parishioners have justly complained, and in this opinion his Excellency trusts you will concur.

DUBLIN SOCIETY.

RETURN to an ORDER of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 1 December 1837;—for,

COPIES of the COMMUNICATIONS which have taken place between the IRISH GOVERNMENT or the TREASURY, and the ROYAL DUBLIN SOCIETY, since the Report of the Select Committee on the Dublin Society was laid upon the Table of the House; also, a Statement showing how far the Recommendations of that Committee have been complied with.

---

COPY of a LETTER from the Treasury to the Royal Dublin Society.

Sir, Treasury Chambers, 24 August 1836.

I HAVE received the commands of the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury to transmit herewith a copy of the Report of the Select Committee of the House of Commons on the Royal Dublin Society, in order that it may be taken into early consideration, and that my Lords may be informed whether any and what practical measures have been founded thereon, before they propose a further vote to Parliament.

My Lords feel it their duty to notice the first resolution (p. xix.) by which it appears that the Select Committee did not consider itself in a situation to pronounce any opinion on the legal question, how far the property of the Royal Dublin Society, partly acquired by former Parliamentary grants and partly from private subscriptions, be of the nature of public property.

My Lords feel that if they do not call the attention of the Society to this resolution, a misconception might arise, that would preclude the possibility of proposing further votes to Parliament; for if it could be thought that the Dublin Society were authorized to dispose of the property which has been acquired mainly through the liberality of Parliament, or apply it to any other use, my Lords are of opinion that a most dangerous principle would be admitted.

It is therefore the decided opinion of my Lords, that no such diversion of the property now held by the Dublin Society could be permitted, except with the knowledge and consent of this Board, and by sanction of law, but that the whole must be held to be a trust for the benefit of the public, and with a view to the useful objects for which the Parliamentary votes were made.

My Lords feel confident that in these opinions the Royal Dublin Society will entirely concur; but they deem an immediate reply on the subject as necessary to be considered before further issues from the Treasury are directed.

I am, &c.

To the Secretary of the Royal Dublin Society. (signed) A. Y. Spearman.

COPY of an ANSWER thereto from the Royal Dublin Society.

Sir, Royal Dublin Society, 30 August 1836.

I AM directed by the special committee of the Royal Dublin Society to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 24th instant, transmitting, by command of the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, a copy of the Report of the Select Committee of the House of Commons on the Royal Dublin Society, in order that it may be taken into early consideration, and calling the special attention of the Society to the first resolution (p. xix.) of said Report, and requiring "an immediate reply on that subject, as necessary before further issues from the Treasury are directed."

With respect to the Report at large, and the adoption of practical measures founded thereon, I am instructed to state, that as the Society is by its charter precluded from modifying the old, or enacting new bye-laws, except at a "stated general meeting," the earliest day that could be fixed for taking the Report into consideration, with a view to practical measures, would be the second Thursday in November.

With respect to the questions involved in the first resolution, and the immediate reply thereto deemed necessary by my Lords, I am instructed to say distinctly, on the part of the special committee, that though the Society have never at any time contemplated as possible the contingency of applying to individual purposes the property of the Society, whether arising from public or private sources, and thus diverting the same from chartered objects, viz. the promotion of husbandry and other useful arts in Ireland, yet that the special committee will, if deemed necessary by my Lords, convene an extraordinary meeting of the Society, for the purpose of expressing their opinion thereupon, although at this season of the year it would be both inconvenient and difficult to secure a meeting of the Society, sufficiently respectable in point of numbers, to afford my Lords the satisfaction they would require.

By Order,
(signed) P. T. Wilson,
Acting for Assisting Secretary.

A. Y. Spearman, Esq.,
Acting Sec. to the Lords of the Treasury.

Copy of a Letter from the Treasury to the Royal Dublin Society.

Sir, Treasury Chambers, 20 Sept. 1836.

Having laid before the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury your letter, as secretary to the Royal Dublin Society, dated 30th ult., I have it in command to acquaint you that my Lords are unwilling to subject the Society to any inconvenience that may be avoided, and they therefore consent to the proposition contained in your said letter, that the report of the Select Committee of the House of Commons on the Royal Dublin Society generally, as well as the resolution to which the attention of the Society was specially called in the letter from this Board of the 24th August last, should be considered in the month of November next, according to the forms prescribed by the constitution of the Society; but that until such meeting has been held, and the result of its deliberation has been brought under the notice of this Board, no further issue will be made upon account of the sum voted in the last Session of Parliament, beyond that which has already been received by the Society from the Exchequer in Dublin.

I am, &c.

Copy of a Report from the Special Committee of the Royal Dublin Society, ordered to be communicated to the Lords of the Treasury, and to Lord Morpeth, Chief Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant, on the 10th November 1836.

The special committee appointed on the 10th day of March last, and further empowered, on the 17th day of March, "to inquire and report whether any, and what alterations should be made in the bye-laws, in reference to the existing committees, and the mode of managing the affairs of the Society," and further empowered, on the 14th April following, to act for the Society in any emergency: Having considered and examined into the matters referred to them, have now to report:—

That—In consequence of the appointment of a Select Committee of the House of Commons to inquire into the administration of the Royal Dublin Society, your committee conceived it expedient to defer the consideration of the matters referred to them until that Committee should have made its Report.

A copy of that Report having been received by the Society, accompanied by a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, dated the 24th of August last, and these documents, together with a further letter from the Secretary to the Treasury, dated the 20th of September, having been laid before your committee, they at once proceeded to consider the several changes therein proposed to be made in the constitution and administration of the affairs of the Society.

Your

Your committee have perceived with pleasure that the Select Committee of the House of Commons, after an unusually full and laborious examination of four months' continuance, have seen no reason to accredit any of the statements or insinuations so long and so industriously circulated to injure the Society.

Your committee, in considering the important subject submitted to them, have been influenced by the same motives and feelings which are expressed in the Report of the Committee of the House of Commons, which states—"That they have been guided solely by a desire to place that institution on such footing as will entitle it to the entire confidence and support of the public, and render it, more fully than it has yet been, an instrument in aiding the education of the people, and the improvement of the country, and are united in a desire to render the Royal Dublin Society a national institution, of which Ireland may justly feel proud."

Your committee recommend to the Society to meet the wishes expressed in the resolutions of the Committee of the House of Commons, whenever it can be done without a violation of the charter, or an obvious sacrifice of the best interests of the institution; and, acting in this spirit, they recommend to the Society to make such changes in the bye-laws as shall be necessary to carry into effect a very large majority of the resolutions of that Committee.

Your committee, however, beg leave to state, that in the case of some of these resolutions they have been induced to recommend such changes, more from a desire to defer to the expressed opinion of the Committee of the House of Commons, than from any conviction of the necessity of the proposed alterations.

Your committee now proceed to submit to the Society the observations which have occurred to them with respect to the resolutions, seriatim.

First Resolution of the Committee of the House of Commons.

That this Committee is not in a situation to pronounce any opinion upon the legal question, how far the property of the Royal Dublin Society, partly acquired by former Parliamentary grants and partly out of the funds arising from private subscriptions, be of the nature of public property; but they are of opinion that it is expedient, that in reference to future Parliamentary grants, it should be fully understood that the members composing that Society are to be considered as trustees administering a public fund, and not as entitled to an absolute right of proprietorship in the property acquired by means of such Parliamentary grants; and in reference to the existing property, that a clear and distinct guarantee should be given by the Society, that the public should be entitled to the full and entire use of that property as at present enjoyed.

Upon this resolution your committee beg to observe, that as far as it involves a legal question, it appears to them that there can be no doubt, from the terms of the original charter, by which the Society and their successors are enabled "to purchase, have, receive, and enjoy lands, tenements, and hereditaments, to the value of 1,000*l.* per annum, and also all manner of goods and chattels, and to any value whatsoever," that the property in land not exceeding the limit assigned by the charter, and in goods to any amount, belonging to the Society, whether arising from subscriptions of its members, gifts from individuals, or grants from Parliament, are possessed by them in absolute right; but as in the performance of the duties assigned to the Society by the charter, the property must be employed in promoting the national objects for which it was incorporated, and is so administered at their entire discretion by the Society, it may be said, so far, to partake of the character of a trust.

The Society does not claim, nor has it ever claimed, the right of disposing of any portion of its property to the private advantage of any of its members, or to any object foreign to those for which it has been founded and incorporated. The administration of its funds for above 100 years having sufficiently attested the integrity of the Society in discharge of the trust reposed in it, and the Report of the Committee of the House of Commons, so recently made, not having imputed to it a single instance of malversation, your committee submit that no further guarantee can be necessary or ought to be required, in reference to its existing property, or for the performance of the duties it has undertaken; nor are your committee aware that this Society could offer any guarantee more effectual or binding than its character, as composed of men holding an honourable situation in society, and those obligations by which it is bound to perform its duties; this Society, like any other chartered body founded for particular objects, being subject to the control of the courts of justice, if it should misapply its funds to improper purposes.

Your committee are further of opinion, that under the charter the Society has not authority to transfer any trust confided to it, and that if it possessed such power, any proposition to part with it would imply a want of confidence in the Society, which your committee are of opinion is not merited, and that a concession of the nature proposed, by appearing to sanction the imputation on which it is founded, would degrade the character of the Society, and eventually extinguish it.

Your committee, therefore, submit to the Society, that it cannot and ought not to consent to any surrender of its property, but should abide by the charter in its true spirit and integrity, convinced of its entire adequacy to the objects for which it has been granted.

With respect to any future Parliamentary grants to this Society, it is of course in the power of Parliament to annex what conditions it may think proper to them; and it will remain for the Society to determine whether it shall deem it expedient to accept the grants with the conditions annexed or not, a decision which your committee cannot at present anticipate; but your committee observe, that with respect to the greater portion of the annual grant made of late years, it is administered in the manner stated in the estimate approved by the Treasury, and is absorbed by the current expenditure of the year; and with the exception of a trifling addition to the library and museum, constitutes no increase to the permanent property of the Society.

Second Resolution of the Committee of the House of Commons.

That the admission of all respectable individuals to a participation in the advantages arising from the Parliamentary grant to the Royal Dublin Society is most desirable; and in order to guard against the capricious exercise of the power of rejection, it is advisable that its bye-laws should be reconsidered, and that hereafter no individual be excluded notwithstanding one-third of the members present may have voted for his rejection, unless at least 40 members shall have voted against his admission; and as regards the admission fee, that it be left optional whether the candidate shall pay a life composition of 20 guineas, or a fee of five guineas, and two guineas annual subscription; and that persons admitted on these terms shall cease to be members if at any time their annual subscriptions shall be one year in arrear, unless the party so in arrear shall make a declaration in writing to the council that he has been absent from the kingdom during the period for which the arrear has been incurred.

That associate subscribers should be admitted to the Society for the term of one year, upon the recommendation of two members of the council, on payment of two guineas, which payment must be made at the time of admission.

Your committee recommend that the bye-laws should be altered, so as to give effect to these recommendations.

Third Resolution of the Committee of the House of Commons.

That the management of the ordinary business of the Society should be confided to a council, but that it may be competent for 30 members to call a general meeting of the Society, when any subject of importance requires consideration, upon giving a notice by advertisement, at least 14 days previous to the day of meeting, of the time at which it will be held, and of the subject to be entertained.

That no such meeting shall be called between the 1st of August and 1st of November, and that there shall be no adjournment of such meeting without a new notice.

That the council should be formed by the union of the following committees, each of which should consist of three members elected by the Society, one member of each committee to go out annually, and that the council should be empowered to associate with each committee not more than three members of the council.

1. Committee of Fine Arts.
2. — of Natural Philosophy, and its application to the Useful Arts.
3. — of Chemistry, ditto.

4. Committee

4. Committee of Mineralogy and Geology, with its application to the useful Arts.
5. — of Botany and Natural History.
6. Committee of Agriculture.
7. — of Statistics.
8. — of Accounts and Domestic Arrangements.

That at an early period in each year an estimate should be presented for sanction to a general meeting of the Society, of the expenditure which will be required in each department of the Society's operations, and that no deviation from that estimate should take place, to an extent greater than 50 l., in the province of any one committee, without the sanction of the Society at large, except upon an extraordinary occasion, when the consent of the Treasury shall be required.

That it should be the duty of each committee to report to the council upon all matters relating to the department over which it presides, and that all recommendations emanating from the committees should be subject to the final sanction of the whole council.

With regard to this resolution, your committee are of opinion, that the Society may adopt the recommendation of the Committee of the House of Commons, so far as to confiding the management of the ordinary business of the Society to a council, provided that the powers of such council be strictly defined and limited, so as not to exclude the direct control over its proceedings upon the part of the Society at large, and your committee submit that the council and committees of management shall consist of and be formed as follows:—

1. Botany and Horticulture.
2. Chemistry, with its application to the Useful Arts.
3. Natural Philosophy and Mechanics.
4. Natural History, Geology, Mineralogy, and charge of the Museum.
5. Fine Arts.
6. Library.
7. Agriculture and Husbandry.
8. Manufactures.
9. Statistics.

That the several committees be chosen annually by ballot; that each committee shall choose its chairman, who with one other member thereof, to be also elected by each committee respectively, shall be members of the council.

That the council shall consist of the seven vice-presidents and two honorary secretaries, the chairman and one other member of each committee, to be elected as before stated, and of nine members, to be elected by ballot, by and from the Society at large.

Your committee are of opinion, that with a view to assure to the Society at large the strictest responsibility as well as efficiency on the part of the council, objects specially recommended by the Committee of the House of Commons, it will be necessary to hold monthly meetings, besides the stated general meetings directed by charter, for special purposes, except during the usual recess.

Fourth Resolution of the Committee of the House of Commons.

That the Dublin Society should be considered as the great central association for the diffusion throughout Ireland of a knowledge of practical science, and of all improvements in agriculture, horticulture, and the arts, and that it should place itself in communication with all local societies founded with a view to similar objects, affording to them assistance, encouragement, and information, and receiving from them in return periodical reports of their proceedings.

Your committee are persuaded that nothing could be more agreeable to the wishes of the Royal Dublin Society than to have the means and opportunity afforded to it of acting most fully upon the views expressed in this resolution.

Fifth Resolution of the Committee of the House of Commons.

That the Dublin Society should be enabled, upon application, to send down qualified persons to give lectures in the provincial towns, whenever the travelling expenses of the lecturer and a reasonable proportion of his remuneration shall be locally subscribed by the parties making the application.

Your committee recommend that the Society should adopt this resolution, and be prepared to act upon it, whenever any local institutions, such as are therein referred to, shall take the necessary steps for enabling the Royal Dublin Society to meet their wishes.

Sixth Resolution of the Committee of the House of Commons.

That the botanic garden should be made, as much as possible, a school for young gardeners seeking instruction in horticulture.

Your committee recommend that the Society shall adopt, in the fullest manner, the views expressed in this resolution, regard being had to such funds as may be at the disposal of the Society for the purpose; and they have to observe, that these recommendations have been already, in a great measure, anticipated by the Society.

Seventh Resolution of the Committee of the House of Commons.

That the museum, the botanic garden, and the lawn, should be open to the public for study or enjoyment, under regulations to be framed by the council.

On this your committee have to observe, that the museum and the botanic garden have been hitherto open to the public, subject to regulations. Your committee recommend that it should be left to the council to adopt any further regulations they may deem expedient, with a view to carrying into further effect the views which seem to have been entertained by the Committee of the House of Commons.

Eighth Resolution of the Committee of the House of Commons.

That books should not be lent out of the library; and that for the convenience of persons desirous to consult the books in the library, a reading-room should be appointed, to which persons not belonging to the Society should have access by special permission of the council.

Your committee recommend that the lending out of scientific books to members of the Society should not be continued, except subject to such restrictions and regulations as the library committee may deem proper; they cannot think that it would be expedient to discontinue it in all possible cases, and that it should be an object of the Society to procure such a reading-room as is described in the resolution, regard being had to the accommodation actually required for the other objects of the institution.

Ninth Resolution of the Committee of the House of Commons.

That the public should be gratuitously admitted to at least one of the courses of lectures given by each professor during the year, and that such gratuitous course should be given in the evening, in order to encourage the attendance of persons engaged during the day in industrious occupations.

It has ever been the wish, as it has been the practice of the Society, to give the public admission to all its lectures; and your committee recommend that the experiment of evening courses should again be made, in deference to the wish of the Committee of the House of Commons.

Tenth Resolution of the Committee of the House of Commons.

That each committee should periodically publish reports of its proceedings; and that the council should, by selection from the papers read at the evening scientific meetings, or by the compilation of such other interesting and useful information as they may think it desirable to communicate to the public, cause to be printed, from time to time, publications, which should be accessible to the public by purchase.

Your committee recommend the adoption of this resolution.

Eleventh Resolution of the Committee of the House of Commons.

That newspapers and political periodicals should no longer be taken into the Society's room, whether procured by special private subscriptions, or paid for out of the general funds of the Society.

It appears to your committee, that in the present state of the diffusion of knowledge the exclusion of newspapers from your reading-room would be hardly reconcilable reconcilable with a desire to be informed of the daily occurring improvements and discoveries in almost every branch of science, arts, and manufactures, as well as agriculture; and that at a period when the reading of newspapers, generally, has received legislative encouragement, by the great reduction of stamp-duties, it would seem inconsistent to apply a different rule to the members of the Royal Dublin Society, and to deprive them of this advantage. Your committee cannot, therefore, recommend to the Society to discontinue a practice which has prevailed from the earliest period of its existence, and which has not been attended with any evil whatever, that your committee is aware of, but your committee recommend that no newspapers be purchased out of any grant of the public money.

Twelfth Resolution of the Committee of the House of Commons.

That measures should be taken for securing increased activity and efficiency in the management of all the schools, and that they should be made instrumental rather in giving instruction in the useful and mechanical department of the arts than in those which are purely ornamental.

Your committee recommend to the Society to give effect to this resolution.

Thirteenth Resolution of the Committee of the House of Commons.

That, in order to form a national museum adequate to the public wants, it is necessary to provide larger accommodation for the exhibition of objects than the present rooms of the Dublin Society are capable of affording, and that such increased accommodation can with advantage be provided by an extension of the buildings of the Society's present house.

Your committee can have no doubt that it will be a most gratifying discharge of duty, on the part of the Royal Dublin Society, to co-operate, by every means in their power, for the attainment of these objects; but it seems hardly necessary to observe, that a considerable extension of the pecuniary means of the Society would be indispensable for the purpose.

In offering the foregoing observations on the Report and Resolutions of the Select Committee of the House of Commons for the consideration of the Society, your committee trust, that while they have evinced, on the one hand, a sincere desire to see the several changes and modifications therein suggested adopted in the true spirit thereof, in almost every case, the Society will be of opinion that they have not recommended any alterations or any concession that can prove injurious to the character or to the best interests of the Society.

Copy of a Letter from the Treasury, enclosing Copy of a Treasury Minute.

Gentlemen, Treasury Chambers, 29 November 1836.

The Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury having had under consideration a report of the special committee of the Royal Dublin Society on the Report and Resolutions of the Committee of the House of Commons, and of the proceedings of the Society thereon, forwarded with your letter of the 15th instant, I have it in command to transmit herewith, for your information, a copy of their Lordships' Minute of the 26th instant upon this subject.

I am, &c.

The Royal Dublin Society. (signed) A. Y. Spearman.

COPY of TREASURY MINUTE, dated 26 November 1836.

MY Lords read the report from the Dublin Society, together with several Reports from Select Committees of the House of Commons, referred to in the margin.

With respect to the several resolutions relating to the internal arrangement of the Society, my Lords suspend their opinion till they have received the judgment of the Irish Government thereon.

Refer this report to Lord Morpeth, requesting that his Lordship will bring it under the consideration of the Lord Lieutenant, in order that my Lords may be favoured with his opinion, whether the resolutions of the Society are such as will advance the objects of its institution, carrying into effect the intentions of the Committee.

But with respect to the first resolution, which would seem to claim for the Dublin Society a right of ownership, acquired for the most part by Parliamentary grants, my Lords feel that a much clearer and more distinct admission must be called for from the Society, than any which they can collect from the papers before them. This question, it should be recollected, is not raised by this Board, but by the Select Committee of the House of Commons; neither is it limited to the case of the Dublin Society, but becomes important, as affecting other institutions aided in the whole or in part from the public purse.

If it can be held desirable, in reference to grants of this description, that an absolute right of ownership exists, it behoves the Treasury to act with much more of caution in reference to grants of public money proposed to Parliament. These grants, amounting, as they have done, to no less a sum than 276,154 l. since the year 1800, my Lords consider to have been made on the supposition, not that an absolute right of ownership could be considered as vested in the Society, but as subject to a public trust, for the public benefit, and with a view to the objects of the charter.

My Lords therefore consider that it would be contrary to the principles on which these grants could be justified, if the property of the Society could be alienated or sold without the consent of this Board, at the same time they are far from imputing any intention to act contrary to their public duty as likely to influence the decisions of the Society; but my Lords are bound to maintain a public principle, which they would not feel justified in abandoning. They cannot, therefore, feel justified in proposing any further vote to Parliament, without an unequivocal admission that the property of the Society is held for the public use of the institution only, and that no absolute right of proprietorship is claimed, and that such property cannot be sold, or in any way alienated, without the consent of my Lords, but that the public shall be entitled to the full and entire use thereof.

My Lords beg that it may be distinctly understood, that by the terms of this Minute they are far from implying any distrust of the Society, but as the question has been raised, it must be disposed of in a manner clear and satisfactory.

It must be obvious to the Society that my Lords would not be justified in proposing the continuance of this or any other similar grant, if a right of ownership was possessed, or claimed, and if, consequently, institutions supported at the public expense could, after acquiring property by Parliamentary grants, be broken up or appropriated for other and dissimilar uses.

It is, therefore, with a view to the perpetuation of the Dublin Society in its offices and duties of usefulness that, before proposing any renewed grant, my Lords feel it to be their bounden duty to have all doubts on this subject removed and a full guarantee given to them by the resolutions of the Society.

COPY of the RESOLUTIONS of the Royal Dublin Society on the foregoing Minute, communicated to the Treasury and to the Irish Government the 26th December 1836.

Resolved, That with respect to the specific admission which is required by the Lords of the Treasury, touching the right of property at present possessed by the Society as a chartered body, as the Society does not claim, nor has it ever claimed, claimed, the right of disposing of any portion of its property to the private advantage of any of its members, or to any object foreign to those for which it has been founded and incorporated, they therefore cannot feel any hesitation in admitting, in the fullest and most unequivocal manner, "that they hold their property subject to a public trust, and for the public benefit, with a view to the objects of the charter, and for the public use of the institution only."

Beyond this the Society feel they cannot go, consistently with their charter and duty; and they take the liberty of adding, that if the Society, who hold whatever they possess as a corporate body solely for the purposes which their charter warrants, were by any act or declaration of theirs voluntarily to surrender any power they have over that property, even to the Crown itself, they would then indeed be guilty of a breach of the duty which they owe alike to themselves and the public, and be unworthy of any public trust.

Robert Shaw, V. P. Henry Carey.
J. D. Jackson, V. P. Anthony Mayler.
Henry Kemmis, V. P. Fenton Hort.
R. B. Bryan, Hon. Sec. J. R. Cooke.
Thomas Wallace. William Smith.
Edward Stanley. Villiers B. Fowler.

And at a subsequent meeting of this committee the following resolution was unanimously agreed to:

Resolved, That with respect to future grants to this corporation, to enable them to support the institutions which are at present maintained by Parliamentary grants, on Parliamentary estimates, or such other objects as Parliament may hereafter recommend to their attention, for the promotion of practical science, the manufactures, agriculture or general industry of Ireland, the Society will consider and admit it to be their bounden duty faithfully and zealously to apply them according to their best discretion and judgment, guided by their charter, to the objects or purposes for which they shall be so appropriated by the Legislature, and to none other. But they would most respectfully add, that even should such future grants, from any misconception or misrepresentation of the conduct or intentions of the Society, be withheld, (which for the sake of the Irish public they would deeply deplore,) the Society would still conceive it to be their duty, and would endeavour, upon a reduced scale, but to the utmost limit of their diminished means, to continue to promote those valuable objects, for which they were originally incorporated.

Copy of a Letter from the Assistant Secretary of the Royal Dublin Society to the Lords of Treasury.

My Lords, Royal Dublin Society, 8 March 1837.

The Royal Dublin Society having expended on the various objects of the institution the sum of 3,000*l.* of the Parliamentary grant of the last Session, issued by the Treasury in August last, and having urgent occasion for the balance, viz. 2,300*l.* for the discharge of its engagements, and the salaries of its professors and officers, did, on the 28th January last, address the usual memorial to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, praying that his Excellency might be pleased to direct the issue thereof to be placed to the credit of the Society in the Bank of Ireland; and a considerable time having elapsed without such issue being made, or any communication received from his Excellency on the subject, while the demands of the Society became more urgent, the Society, on the 23d February, directed a letter to be written to Mr. Drummond, requesting him to move his Excellency to order such issue as speedily as might be convenient, inasmuch as the financial year was about to close, many pressing engagements remained to be fulfilled, and that the salaries of officers and professors would become due this month, for which there was no provision; to which letter an answer has been received on the 4th instant, stating "that his Excellency had no power to comply with the prayer of the memorial of 28th January, in consequence of directions from your Lordships," of which fact the Society remained uninformed till the 4th March.

The Royal Dublin Society beg leave to represent to your Lordships, that it was communicated to them by a Treasury Minute of 13th September 1836, that until the stated general meeting of the Society in the month of November of that year should have taken place, and the result of its deliberations of said Treasury Minute had been brought under the notice of your Lordships, no further issue would be made on account of the sum voted in the last Session of Parliament beyond the 3,000*l.* issued in August 1836. That such stated general meeting of the Society was held accordingly on the 10th November, and the subject to which its attention was specially directed by your Lordships received the fullest and most respectful consideration, and the result thereof was communicated to your Lordships, by order of the Society, as early as it was practicable, viz. on the 10th November.

That a further communication from your Lordships, by a Treasury Minute of 26th November, was subsequently received, requiring additional explanation on one particular point, viz. the first Resolution of the Select Committee of the House of Commons, and stating that your Lordships had referred the remainder of the subject for the opinion of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, to which communication the Society transmitted an answer, in the form of resolutions, on the 26th December last, since which period no notification has been received as to whether the explanation given by the Society was satisfactory to your Lordships or not, nor of the opinion of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant on the remaining parts of the subject.

The Royal Dublin Society begs leave further to represent to your Lordships, that in consequence of this state of ignorance as to your Lordships' opinions and intentions, or of the opinion of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, the uncertainty as to what may be the future situation of the Society, together with the total destitution of funds, the operations and exertions of the Society have been paralyzed, and they have been unable to act on any of the recommendations or suggestions contained in the Report of the Select Committee of the House of Commons.

That in addition to the deficiency of funds, occasioned by the withholding of so large a proportion of the Parliamentary grant of last year, the Society has also experienced, in consequence of the circumstance already alluded to, an almost total failure of that branch of its usual income arising from the admission fees of members, nine candidates only having come forward for admission since 1st April last ; the amount received under that head being only 189 l., although the amount received from the same source for the three preceding years was as follows :

|---|---|---|
| Year ending March | 1834 | £. 1,533 |
| — | 1835 | 1,365 |
| — | 1836 | 1,344 |

Giving an average of 1,414 l. per annum.

That thus the means of the Society to carry on the important objects of its institution have been reduced to a trifling sum, not even sufficient to keep up the premises in repair, to maintain the several establishments of the Society, and to pay the salaries of its officers and professors.

The Society, therefore, respectfully requests that your Lordships may take the premises into your consideration, and give directions to the Vice-Treasurer of Ireland for an immediate issue of the balance of the last Parliamentary grant of 2,300 l.

By Order,

(signed) Ed. Hardman, Assist. Secretary.

Copy of a Letter from the Assistant Secretary of the Royal Dublin Society to the Lords of the Treasury.

My Lords, Royal Dublin Society, 10 April 1837.

The Royal Dublin Society, in their representation of the 8th March last, had the honour of stating to your Lordships that considerable embarrassment had been been felt by the Society from the non-issue of the balance of 2,300 l. of the Parliamentary grant of 1836; and the Society at the same time respectfully requested your Lordships to take the matter into consideration, and to be pleased to enable the Society to fulfil its engagements.

To this representation the Royal Dublin Society has not yet been honoured with any answer.

I am directed therefore respectfully to renew the request of the Society, and to express a hope that your Lordships may be pleased to consider the following facts:

That in consequence of the non-issue of the balance in question, the engagements of the Society for the expenses of the last quarter, amounting to nearly 1,400 l. remain unfulfilled; that the tradesmen and others to whom money is due, are daily importuning for the payment of their accounts:

That in addition to those outstanding engagements, the current expenses of the several branches of the institution would require a supply to maintain them, in any degree; for which purpose the remainder of the balance would be scarcely sufficient up to the period at which the Society might expect to be in the receipt of any part of any new grant, which it may be your Lordships pleasure to recommend to Parliament. That in particular, the establishment of the botanic garden requires a constant and considerable expense, and that without the means of meeting such, very great and immediate injury to the garden must ensue, more especially at this season of the year:

That besides the defalcation of funds, arising from the suspension of part of the last grant, the Society has sustained an actual loss of nearly 1,400 l. (calculated on the average of three preceeding years) under the head of "admission fees," in consequence of the uncertainty in which the situation of the Society has been involved.

I have, &c.

Copy of a Resolution of the Royal Dublin Society respecting the alienation of Property, communicated to the Right Hon. the Chancellor of the Exchequer on the 11th May 1837.

Resolved, That whilst the Society doubt their legal authority to make a bye-law to the effect of the guarantee required by the Minute of the Treasury, they are, for themselves, willing to admit, that in consideration of the Parliamentary grants made to the Society, it is but just and reasonable that they should not alienate their property without the approval of the Lords of the Treasury.

Copy of a Letter from the Treasury to the Royal Dublin Society, stating the Order for the issue of Balance of last Year's Grant.

My Lords and Gentlemen, Treasury Chambers, 19 June 1837.

The Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury having had before them the unanimous resolution of the Royal Dublin Society of the 11th ultimo, "That whilst the Society doubt their legal authority to make a bye-law to the effect of a guarantee required by the Minute of this Board, they are, for themselves, willing to admit, that in consideration of the Parliamentary grants made to the Society, it is but just and reasonable that they should not alienate their property without the approval of this Board," I am commanded by their Lordships to acquaint you, that as it appears that the Society have been withheld from making a bye-law to the same effect, solely by the reason of their doubt how far they are legally empowered to make such a bye-law, their Lordships have directed the Paymaster of Civil Services in Dublin to pay to the proper officer of the Society the remainder of the grant for 1836-7, in compliance with your previous applications to that effect.

I am at the same time desired to state that my Lords will, for your information and government, take the opinion of the law-officers of the Crown as to your legal authority to make a bye-law to the effect of the guarantee required.

STATEMENT showing how far the Recommendations of the Select Committee of the House of Commons on the Royal Dublin Society have been complied with.

Report of the special committee and of the committee of agriculture jointly, adopted and confirmed by the Society on the 2d February 1837, praying for the sum of 1,000 l., in addition to the estimate, to carry into effect the recommendations of the Select Committee of the House of Commons, transmitted to the Lords of the Treasury.

The special committee and the committee of agriculture have to report to the Society, that having further considered the resolutions of the Select Committee of the House of Commons, to which the Lords of the Treasury have adverted in their communications touching the state of the Society, and having also considered the answers given by the Society to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, submit to the Society, that it would be expedient, in order still further to evince the willingness and anxiety of the Society to comply with the expressed desire of the Select Committee of the House of Commons and of the Lords of the Treasury, "that the Society should become as extensively useful to the public, in respect to practical science and improvements in agriculture and statistics, as possible," that the Society should forthwith apply to the Lords of the Treasury for a sum of 1,000*l.*, in addition to the estimates already prepared and furnished, "to enable them to place the Society efficiently in communication with the local societies already existing, founded with a view to the promotion of agricultural knowledge, and to afford them assistance, encouragement, and information, and receive from them in return periodical reports of their proceedings." (See the 4th resolution.)

Also, to make the Society "still more extensively and efficiently useful; to apply itself to the collection and diffusion of statistical information, by inviting and encouraging societies and individuals in the provincial towns in Ireland to supply the Society with statistical information respecting their respective districts, in order that the Society may be enabled to deduce, from comparison and collection of such information, general results in a succinct form."

Thomas Wallace, Chairman.

At a stated general meeting of the Royal Dublin Society, held pursuant to charter on the 9th November 1837, and by adjournment on the two following Thursdays, viz. 16th and 23d of November, the following alterations and amendments of the bye-laws were proposed and agreed to, subject to confirmation by the Society at its next stated general meeting, agreeably to charter:—

Resolved, That the bye-law No. 2, be rescinded, and the following adopted:

That all elections for members shall be at the stated or ordinary meetings of the Society, between the hours of two and four o'clock, and no person shall be proposed as a candidate unless he shall be recommended by at least two members, and the name, place of abode, and addition of the person recommended shall be delivered, in writing, to the chairman, signed by the proposers, and at the next meeting he may be balloted for, during which time his name and addition shall be posted up in some public part of the Society's rooms, and if two-thirds of the members then voting shall ballot in favour of him, he shall be admitted a member. He shall also be admitted a member if a majority shall vote in his favour, unless it shall appear that 40 have voted against him.

Resolved, That the following bye-law be adopted:

That the management of the business of the Society be confided to a council, the powers of such council to be strictly, as hereafter, defined and limited, and subject subject to the direct control over its proceedings upon the part of the Society at large; and that the council and committees of management shall consist of and be formed as follows:

Standing committees each to consist of nine members; to preside over the following departments: viz.

1. Botany and Horticulture.
2. Chemistry, with its application to the Useful Arts.
3. Natural Philosophy and Mechanics.
4. Natural History, Geology, Mineralogy, and charge of the Museum.
5. Fine Arts.
6. Library.
7. Agriculture and Husbandry.
8. Manufactures.
9. Statistics.

Resolved, That the powers and duties of the council shall be as follows:

1st. That the business of the Society be in future committed to the management of the council, who shall exercise a general superintendence over the affairs, officers, and servants of the Society, and over every branch of its establishment; and shall have power to make such orders and regulations for the management thereof as it shall deem necessary or expedient (the same not being contrary to the existing laws of the Society), with such restrictions as are hereinafter mentioned; such orders and regulations to be subject to the control of the Society as hereinafter more particularly stated.

2d. That the house committee and committee of economy do cease, from and after the appointment of a council, and that the duties thereof thenceforth shall devolve on the council.

That the several other committees do continue and transact the business of their respective departments as heretofore, with such modifications as may hereafter be provided.

3d. That the several committees do report their proceedings, from time to time, to the council, which reports shall be laid before the Society at its meetings by the council.

4th. That the council shall have power, at its discretion, to require from each committee that the Minutes of its proceedings be laid before it, and shall also be empowered to make such references as it shall think proper to any committee upon any matters within its department; and the committee so referred to shall be bound to make a report on the subject of such reference to the council, who shall be enabled to make such orders or regulations thereon, with the concurcurrence of the committee, as it shall deem expedient, the same not being contrary to the existing laws of the Society, which order or regulation shall then be carried into effect; provided that the council shall make no order or new regulation on any matter within the department of such committee, without the concurrence of said committee.

(An amendment having been here moved to add the words "and the approbation of the Board," the amendment was negatived).

Provided also, that if the council and the committee of any department shall not concur in any new regulation or order in such department proposed by the council, the same shall be referred to the Society, who shall make such order thereon as it shall think proper, which shall be carried into effect by the council and committee respectively.

5th. That the Society shall have power and authority to rescind or alter any order or regulation of the council of a prospective nature, at the meeting of the Society next but one after such order or regulation shall have been made; but no order or regulation of the council shall be altered or rescinded, unless notice of a motion to that effect be given, at least seven days before the said meeting of the Society, at which same may be altered or rescinded; such notice to be given in writing, and signed by the mover, to the assistant secretary, to be by him posted in a conspicuous part of the Society's conversation-room.

6th. That the council shall hold its meetings weekly, with power to adjourn on public holidays, and at any time in the summer recess, not exceeding three months, and that seven members do constitute a quorum.

7th. That the council shall cause Minutes of all its proceedings to be entered in a book, such book to be accessible to the members of the Society, and that the council shall specially report to the Society at each of its stated general meetings.

8th. That in case of any emergency, requiring an expenditure which could not properly be delayed from one meeting of the Society to another, the council be empowered to expend a sum not exceeding 50*l.* on any given object.

9th. That at each meeting of the Society the proceedings of the council since the preceding meeting of the Society be read.

10th. The council shall have power to make bye-laws for its own regulation, provided such bye-laws be not opposed or repugnant to the charter or bye-laws, or any express regulation of the Society.

Resolved, That the bye-law, No. 3, be rescinded, and the following adopted:

No person shall be balloted for to be a member of the Society, unless in the presence of at least one of the members who proposed him, who shall, before ballot, pay to the register the admission fee, whether as life or annual member; and if such person shall not be put in election, at the farthest, at the next meeting after the day on which he might have been elected, he shall not then be considered as having been at all proposed.

That the life subscriptions of members be 20 guineas; or in case the candidate shall not be desirous to pay such life composition, such candidate shall deposit a fee of five guineas previous to the ballot, and pay two guineas on admission, as an annual subscription, such annual subscription to become payable in advance, on each first day of January; and that persons admitted on these terms shall cease to be members if at any time their annual subscriptions shall be one year in arrear, unless the party so in arrear shall make a declaration in writing to the council, that he has been absent from Ireland during the period for which the arrear has been incurred, and until he shall have paid up all arrears.

Resolved, That the bye-law, No. 12, be rescinded, and the following adopted:

That "associate subscribers" be admitted to the Society for the term of one year, upon recommendation in writing of five members of the Society, one of whom to be a vice-president or honorary secretary, on payment of two guineas, which payment must be made at the time of admission.

That such associate subscribers shall not be incorporated members of the Society, nor shall they be permitted to be present at the meetings of the Board or of any committee, nor to vote or interfere with the management of the affairs or property of the Society.

Each associate subscriber shall, before his admission, sign a declaration explanatory of the terms upon which he is to be admitted as an associate subscriber, containing a copy of this bye-law, and an engagement to acquiesce in the regulations of the Society; and the Society shall have the power, if it think fit, to exclude any such associate subscriber who may violate such regulations, or be guilty of any improper conduct.

Associate subscribers shall have free access to the library, as enjoyed by the members, excepting that no books shall be removed from the room. They shall have in like manner access to all lectures and exhibitions within the Society's premises, to the botanic garden, museum, galleries, and lawn.

Resolved, That the bye-law, No. 27, be amended, by adding the following words:

That the lending out of scientific books from the library to members of the Society shall be subject to such restrictions and regulations as the library committee may deem proper.

Resolved, That the sections 1, 2, 3, 4, and 20 of the bye-law, No. 29, relating to the appointment of standing committees, be rescinded.

That section 5 be rescinded, and the following substituted:

5. That one week, at least, before the day of ballot, the assistant secretary shall prepare and place in the conversation and board-rooms, printed lists of the names of members belonging to the several committees of the previous year who shall have attended one-third of the meetings of said committees; and further, that so many eligible names as shall, together with the names returned, make the total number of 15, be selected by each committee respectively, to be submitted to the judgment of the Society.

That section 8 of said bye-law (No. 29) be varied by expunging the words "upon

"upon the next Thursday," and inserting instead the words "at the next meeting of the Society," seven days' notice of which to be posted.

Resolved, That the bye-law, No. 41, be rescinded.

Resolved, That the several committees be chosen annually by ballot; the first election of whom shall be made at the first monthly meeting of the Society which shall take place next after the confirmation of this bye-law; and every future election shall be made on the first monthly meeting of the Society in December in each year; that each committee shall choose its chairman, who, with one other member thereof, to be also elected by each committee respectively, within one week after the election of such committee, shall be members of the council.

That the council shall consist of the seven vice-presidents and two honorary secretaries, the chairman and one other member of each committee, to be elected as before stated, and of nine members to be elected by ballot, by and from the Society at large; such last-mentioned election to be held at the monthly meeting which shall next ensue after the election of the committees, as aforesaid, seven days previous to which each committee shall return the names of their chairman and other member, by them elected to the council; such lists to be posted in the Society's public room.

That the vice-presidents and honorary secretaries are to be considered ex-officio members of each committee.

That in case any vacancy shall occur in the council, or in any of the committees, such vacancy shall be filled up by the same mode of election, and by the same body who elected the individual who filled the office so vacant. Such election to be held at the next meeting of the body having such power of election which shall be held after such vacancy.

That one-fourth of the council go out annually. This rotation to be effected by requiring that the second member to be nominated by each committee shall be a different person from the members so elected the preceding year.

Resolved, That besides the stated general meetings prescribed by charter, general meetings of the Society shall be held on the first Thursday in November and first Thursday in December, and on last Thursday in each of the other months during the Society's sittings.

Resolved, That no motion shall be entertained (except a motion of reference) at any meeting of the Society of which notice shall not have been handed to the assistant secretary, and posted by him in the conversation-room, one week at least previous to such meeting.

Resolved, That the foregoing bye-laws, now agreed to, together with those agreed to on the 9th and 16th instant, be taken into consideration at the next stated general meeting in March next, to be then confirmed or rejected.

REPORT of the Selected Committee respecting the delivery of Lectures in Provincial Towns, by the Professors of the Society, as recommended by the Select Committee of the House of Commons, which Report was approved and confirmed by the Society, on Thursday the 7th December 1837.

The selected committee, in reporting on the reference made to them on Thursday last, from the Society, of a letter from the secretary to the Wicklow Association for Promoting General Knowledge, inquiring whether the Royal Dublin Society proposes sending lecturers to such provincial towns in Ireland as have literary or scientific associations, and may apply for the same, have to state, that they find in the Report of the Select Committee of the House of Commons a recommendation, "That the Royal Dublin Society should be enabled, on application, to send down qualified persons to give lectures in the provincial towns, whenever the travelling expenses of the lecturer and a reasonable proportion of his remuneration shall be locally subscribed by the parties making the application."

On which the Society resolved, on the 10th November 1836, and communicated their resolution to the Lords of the Treasury, and to the Government here, "That the Society should adopt this recommendation and be prepared to act upon it, whenever any local institutions, such as are therein referred to, should take the necessary steps for enabling the Royal Dublin Society to meet their wishes."

That the select committee can perceive no objection to the professors of the Society, after their courses of lectures have been delivered in Dublin, accepting of short temporary engagements in provincial towns; but that as the Society has not been enabled by the allocation of funds in the year's estimate to provide for more than the regular salaries of the professors, the committee is of opinion that the terms and conditions of such engagements should for the present be left for settlement between the professors themselves and the local societies who may desire their services.

Courses of evening lectures by the professors have been delivered, and others are in course of being delivered, in conformity with the recommendations of the Select Committee of the House of Commons, free to the public, besides having scientific meetings of the Society monthly, to which strangers are admissible by tickets.

COUNTY OF THE CITY OF CORK.

AN Inquisition indented and taken at Mallow-lane, in the north liberties of the city of Cork, on Monday the 29th day of January, in the year of our Lord 1838, and continued by adjournment to the court-house in the said city, before Henry Hardy, one of Her Majesty's coroners for the said city of Cork, on view of the body of Maurice Morrison lying dead there, at Mallow-lane aforesaid,

1. Bernard Sheehan,
2. Michael Cox,
3. James Russell,
4. John Buckley,
5. John Hayes,
6. Bartholomew Cotter,
7. John Hogan,
8. Timothy Haly,
9. Jeremiah Cabett,
10. Jeremiah Buckley,
11. William Carroll,
12. John Meade,
13. Daniel Buckley,
14. John Halloran,

Good and lawful men of the said city and county of the city of Cork, who being then and there duly sworn and charged to try and inquire, on the part and behalf of our Sovereign Lady The Queen, how and in what manner the said Maurice Morrison came by his death, and a true verdict to give according to the evidence, did find and present as follows; that is to say,—We find and present that the deceased Maurice Morrison embarked at Cork on Friday the 19th day of January last, in the steam-vessel Killarney, George Baily master, belonging to the Bristol Steam Packet Company, on an intended voyage to Bristol, and that on Saturday the 20th day of January aforesaid the said vessel was wrecked on the south-west coast of Ireland, near Robert's Cove, in a very violent gale of wind, and the said Maurice Morrison, with several other passengers and part of the crew, were then and there unfortunately drowned.

And we further find that said George Baily and crew used their utmost endeavours for the preservation of the vessel and the lives of all on board, except so far as not going into the engine-room to ascertain from personal knowledge why the fires could not be kept lighted; and we further find that the great number of pigs on board that said vessel, both in the fore-hold and the deck, tended in a great measure to increase her danger during said gale of wind, and to accelerate her loss. And we therefore earnestly recommend that the proper authorities may be applied to, in order that some regulations may be adopted for the export of pigs and other live cattle, so as that the safety of passengers and crews may not be endangered by them; and further, that life-boats be established, and proper machinery kept at the coasts in the custody of the coast guards for the preservation of the lives of shipwrecked persons.

Office of Committee of Privy Council for Trade,
Whitehall, 27 February 1838.

Sir,

I AM directed by the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade, to request that you will lay before Lord Glenelg the enclosed copy of an inquest held on the body of one of the individuals who perished last month in the wreck of the Killarney steamer, on the west coast of Ireland.

Lord Glenelg will perceive that the finding of the jury ascribes the loss of the vessel chiefly to the great number of pigs on board, and earnestly recommends the attention of Government to be called to the necessity of some regulation for the export of pigs and other live cattle, and the same feeling appears to be generally entertained by the public.

The attention of the President of this Board having likewise been called to the circumstance in the House of Commons, he undertook on the part of the Government to see what could be done for remedying the evils in question, and the Lords of this Committee finding from a communication which has since taken place between the Admiralty and this Board on the subject, that none of the officers employed on the Irish coast can be spared from their ordinary duties, they request that Lord Glenelg will instruct the emigration agents at Cork and Waterford to inquire into the complaints alleged against the steam-packets at those ports plying between the two countries, and report the result of such inquiry to this Board, with any suggestions that they may be able to offer for satisfying the public mind, and with a view to the introduction of some legislative measure on the subject.

I am, &c.

Government Emigration Office,
Sir, 2 Middle Scotland Yard, 9 March 1838.

In reference to a letter from you to the Colonial Department, stating the wish of the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade, that the emigration agents at Cork and Waterford should be directed to inquire into the complaints alleged against the steam-boats plying between those ports and Great Britain; I have the honour to state that I have sent instructions accordingly to Lieutenant Friend, the agent at Cork, but that there is no agent at Waterford. There are, however, agents at Dublin, Belfast, and Londonderry; and I would request to be informed whether, if any legislative measure be contemplated on the subject, their Lordships would not wish that similar inquiries should be made at these ports also, all of which have emigration agents stationed at them, while from some, if not from all, there is a considerable export of live stock, as well as from the south of Ireland. I am not aware of any resident officers at Waterford, unless those of the Custom-house, who could investigate the subject there.

EXTRACT of a LETTER from Lieutenant Ramsay, R.N., Government Emigration Agent for the Port of Londonderry, dated Custom House, Londonderry, 19 March 1838.

I AM not acquainted with any accident having occurred with the steam-boats from this port, from their being overloaded with cattle and pigs, as the quantity exported from thence to Great Britain is rather limited.

Thomas F. Elliot, Esq.
&c. &c. &c.

Government Emigration Office,
Sir, Belfast, 19 March 1838.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 13th instant, directing me to inquire into the complaints alleged against the steam-packets plying between Belfast and Great Britain, and furnish you, for the use of the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade, with a report of the result of my inquiries.

In compliance with your directions I have made diligent inquiry into the circumstances alluded to, but the export trade in pigs and other cattle from Belfast is so limited, that there is little or no room for complaint; one instance only has fallen under my own observation of a steam-boat taking on board too many horses, and thereby she was certainly exposed to some danger, but I believe it was more accidental than otherwise; indeed the principal owners and agents of steam-vessels in Belfast are so highly respectable, and conduct the trade with so much judgment and attention, confining the number of beasts to the space which can be conveniently and securely appropriated to them, that scarcely a case of the description complained of is to be apprehended; but this feeling, I regret to say, does not extend to all the neighbouring ports; for in Newry, Dundalk, and Drogheda, where this trade is very extensive, I am informed that in many instances passengers have refused to embark, both from the immense number of pigs crammed into the vessel, and the stench arising therefrom; the feeling that some remedy is necessary appears to be unanimous; and as Mr. Le Marchant's letter calls for the suggestions of officers employed in this inquiry, I may be permitted to make a few remarks thereon.

The exportation of pigs and horned cattle, forming as it does a prominent feature in the trade of Ireland, and quick transit being so desirable, it may be considered impossible to prohibit their conveyance in steam-boats altogether; and in many ports the mere conveyance of passengers and merchandize without cattle would not make a sufficient return to induce companies to start separate passenger and cattle-boats; as also a greater number of animals may be carried when the remaining or dead-weight part of the cargo is proportionably small, and vice versâ, it would be difficult to lay down any general rule as to the exact quantity which may be embarked in any particular vessel. On the other hand, a crowded deck must materially impede the crew in the performance of their duty, and endanger the safety of the ship; and live stock being carried in the hold might induce masters of steamers to allow their judgment to be overcome by a fear of, or an anxiety to please, the shippers or their owners, and in consequence the hatches may be kept off in rough weather longer than prudence or a proper precaution would warrant, by which means large quantities of water get below, and tend to extinguish the fires. That this should be controlled admits not of a doubt, and the appointment of officers whose duty it would be to regulate the carriage of cattle according to circumstances, of which, being on the spot, they could form the best judgment, suggests itself as the most efficient remedy; but as a general arrangement it might be enacted, that no steam-vessel should carry pigs on deck without a strong barricade being constructed to confine them to the midships of the deck, leaving at all times a clear gang-way on each side for the seamen to pass fore and aft. The hold conveyance is a more difficult matter, but I think the hatches might be so constructed as to admit of their being early secured, and air conveyed below by means of a funnel fitted to ship and unship as required, and of sufficient height to prevent the sea washing over it, the foul air being in like manner carried off through pipes brought up between the timbers in the side, as high as the gunwale rail: at all events, a wish to save the lives of animals under his charge can be no excuse for a master delaying to secure the safety of his ship, and a neglect of this kind should be always visited with severity.

Trusting that in thus giving my opinion, I have not exceeded the limits prescribed to me,

I have, &c.

(signed) Edward Miller, Lieut. R. N., and Government Agent for Emigration.

Agent Gen. for Emigration.

Government Emigration Office,
Sir, Dublin, 17 March 1838.

In reply to your letter of the 13th, I have the honour to transmit the result of my inquiries relative to the transport of live stock between the two countries.

It would appear that, since the establishment of the Dublin Steam Packet Company, no instance has occurred of the necessity of throwing either cattle or pigs overboard, nor can I learn an instance of any of the vessels having been endangered by being overburdened, except the Lord Blayney, from Newry, which was obliged to drive her deck cargo overboard, having shipped a heavy sea off the Calf of Man; she was laden from one extreme to the other with cattle, leaving the steersman barely clear.

In order to remedy this evil, I would suggest the propriety of confining the deck cargo within certain limits (number or weight being too indefinite), for instance, from the after part of the forecastle, (or in a steamer, which is the same thing) from the fore part of the houses to the fore part of the main hatchway, whereby the extremes will be unincumbered, and an easy access afforded to the anchors and chains, which in Channel passages is of the first importance; and also that particular attention should be paid to the substance and security of the shifting-boards, so that they should be able to sustain any pressure occasioned by a "sea lurch." Such being attended to, I am of opinion that any cargo a vessel can contain "amidships" may be carried with safety. A great difference exists between the passages from Dublin, Drogheda, Newry, Dundalk, to Liverpool, and that between Cork and Waterford to Bristol, both in nature and extent. When the wind falls in this part of the Channel, the sea goes down, and the southerly and westerly winds prevailing, vessels have smooth water when they reach Holyhead, which they usually do in six or seven hours; whereas, on the Cork and Waterford passages, they are exposed to the heavy rolling sea of the Western Ocean, to the entrance of the Bristol Channel, where they are often met with a sea as bad, or worse, occasioned by the great strength of the tides. On those passages the limits alluded to may be reduced, or in the winter months deck cargo altogether prohibited.

H. M. Emigration Office,
Sir, Cork, 9 April 1838.

Agreeably to the directions contained in your letter of the 6th March, desiring me to inquire into the alleged complaints against the steam-vessels trading between this port and England, and to furnish you with the result of such inquiry for the use of the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade,—

I have now the honour to inform you, for the information of their Lordships, that I have made such inquiries as circumstances enabled me, of persons residing in this neighbourhood; but the most material evidence touching the loss loss of the Killarney, that of the chief surviving officer (the mate), who had been in the engine-room prior to the loss of that unfortunate vessel, I have not been able to obtain, he being now in Bristol. I waited on the Coroner who presided at the inquest alluded to in the communication accompanying your letter, but could not learn that there were any definite complaints against the steam-vessels; but that the jury considered that the loss of the Killarney, from the evidence brought before them, was mainly attributed to the heavy deck load of pigs which she had on board at the time, and that in consequence they recommended some legislative restriction as to the number of pigs, or the quantity of deck load to be adopted.

I have also made inquiries of such gentlemen whose nautical and mercantile experience renders their opinion worthy of notice, as well as of the agent of the St. George Steam Packet Company, and of several of the most respectable masters who have been commanding steam-vessels between this and England for several years; and although their evidence must be obviously received with caution, yet it is certainly deserving of consideration, as it appears that only once in 12 years has there been occasion to throw overboard the deck load, and even then 240 pigs were retained on board, although these vessels have continued running in all weathers during so many winters. It will be perceived that the companies do not insure their vessels, and are consequently interested in their not carrying more deck load than is consistent with their safety. But notwithstanding these circumstances, I cannot but consider that there should be some legislative restriction as to the quantity of pigs, or other live cattle, to be carried on deck; even though they may not directly affect the safety of the vessel, yet the crowded state of the decks must obviously obstruct the movements of the crew in times of risk and danger, and increase the labouring of the vessel when going with a heavy sea on the beam. It appears to me that no steam-vessel should be permitted to carry a greater number of pigs or other live cattle on deck than could be conveniently placed on one side of the vessel, so that they may be used for trimming if required, and so add to the general safety, and I think this point would be accomplished by limiting the number of pigs to one to each ton of the register measurement, calculating sheep and calves as pigs, and horned cattle as equal to two pigs. The only objection to this limitation is that the freight will probably be increased, and a question arises, whether such increase of freight will operate as a check to the exportation of pigs from Ireland; my own opinion is that it will not, but, on the contrary, that the shippers of such pigs and cattle will be actually benefited by the reduction of the numbers to be carried, provided the original freight is in proportion to the decrease of numbers, as at present, from the usual crowded state of the vessels, many losses occur by death, which in all probability will be much reduced when a smaller number is carried.

That such losses do take place appears evident from there being a by-law in Liverpool, imposing a fine on the masters of the vessels for each animal not reported having died on the passage. The increase of freight will also induce the export of a superior quality, as they will better pay the additional expense.

The opinion I have now ventured to offer is fully in accordance with that of every individual not connected with the steam company, particularly of several experienced naval officers, all of whom have frequently considered the safety of the steam-vessels between this port and England to have been compromised by the great quantity of pigs carried on deck, and also fully concur in expressing the necessity of some regulation on this point.

I annex the evidence of the agent and masters belonging to the steam-packet companies.

I have, &c.

(signed) Charles Friend, Lieutenant, R. N.

Thomas F. Elliot, Esq.
&c. &c. &c.

EVIDENCE of the Agent and Masters of the Steam Packet Company.

Mr. Beale, the managing agent of the St. George Packet Company in Cork, states, that the value of the vessels in the employment of the company trading between this port and England, average from 20,000*l.* to 30,000*l.* The Syrius cost near 30,000*l.*, the Juno 24,000*l.*, the Vulture 25,000*l.* That the Company do not insure them, but bear their own risk, and consequently have a decided interest in their safety. That the commanders of the respective vessels are left to their own discretion, both as to sailing when the weather is tempestuous, and as to the quantity of deck load, which is regulated according to the state of the weather. Mr. Beale also states, that on investigating the cause of the Killarney's loss, it appeared from the evidence of the mate, subsequent to the inquest, that the water in the engine-room which put out the fires, and rendered the vessel unmanageable, was hot water, and that it was in the act of wearing preparatory to bearing up for their return, that she laboured so much that it became necessary to relieve the vessel by throwing overboard their deck cargo, consisting of 429 pigs, (having on board 669, 240 of which were below,) and that such a measure would not have been requisite could the vessel have been kept under command by her machinery; that the tonnage of the Killarney was 225 register tonnage; the pigs averaging about a hundred weight and a half each, which was not more than the vessel was fully able to carry, having frequently carried a much greater number, and that consequently her loss must be attributed to something attached to her boilers having given way, and not to the quantity of deck cargo.

Mr. Parker, commander of the "Victory" steam-vessel, running between this and Bristol, states, That he has been commanding on this line near 12 years, and that during the whole period he has never had occasion to throw overboard any part of the deck load but once, which was in the heavy gale which visited this coast from the 13th to the 16th February last, when, in consequence of being obliged suddenly to haul off the land in a tremendous sea, he threw overboard all but 240 pigs, which he had no difficulty in doing, and which was sufficient to relieve the vessel. He also states that he has always used his own discretion as to the quantity of deck load to be taken; and that he considers a moderate deck load of no disadvantage, but rather of service. The "Victory's" tonnage is 250 tons register; considers she can carry safely in any weather 500 pigs, which might be, in extreme cases, reduced to 250; he has always taken 600 in summer and 500 in winter.

Mr. Pile, commanding the "Ocean," of 300 tons register, has been commanding steam-vessels near 12 years, now on the Liverpool line, has never had occasion to throw overboard any deck cargo; has carried 700 pigs, 500 of which were on deck, which he considers may be safely carried. He states he has always been left to use his own discretion, whether in sailing, or putting back, or in the quantity of deck load to be carried.

Mr. Hyde commands the "City of Bristol," belonging to the City of Bristol Company, employed between Cork and Bristol, of 229 tons register; states that he has commanded a steam-packet nine years; that he had never occasion to throw overboard any part of his deck cargo; considers his vessel can carry 500 pigs with ease, say 320 on deck and 180 below; has taken at one time 800; and that the Company do not insure their vessels, but bear their own risk; that he used his own discretion on the quantity of cargo to be taken.

The matter thus remained over until yesterday's board, when the following resolution was unanimously agreed upon, and desired to be duly communicated to you, which I now have the honour to do.

Resolved, That inasmuch as Mr. Drummond has informed the governors that their request to liberate Robert Breakey has been refused; and that inasmuch as the said Breakey has been reported to the board by the manager and physician as being perfectly sane, since the date of his admission, which has further been made made evident to the governors themselves, upon a careful personal examination, it be accordingly notified to Mr. Drummond, as their opinion, that the circumstances connected with Breakey's transmission have been overlooked, it appearing to them that his being placed in the asylum has been altogether irregular, there being no evidence that he was tried for any offence, or declared by a jury to be insane; that, therefore, the man is, by the laws of his country, entitled to his liberty; and that consequently the governors trust that an immediate order may be issued for his discharge.

Your attention is now also respectfully called to the subject of the communication forwarded to you from the asylum on the 3d ult., to which no answer has as yet been received.

Respecting Johnson and Rutherford. See the Papers relating to their case. The proper steps were immediately taken.

Sir, Down Gaol, 11 February 1837.

IN answer to your letter of the 10th instant, desiring to know "whether Robert Breakey, who was transmitted from this gaol to the District Lunatic Asylum at Belfast, was tried, and for what crime," I beg to state, that Robert Breakey was committed as being a dangerous lunatic, on the oath of Dr. Chermside, of Warrenpoint. Robert Breakey was brought up before Chief Baron Joy, at Spring assizes 1836, when it was ruled, "A lunatic, to remain in custody to abide the orders of the Lord Lieutenant." On the 21st March I wrote, by order of the board of superintendence, to the Chief Secretary, informing him of the above, and received his answer, of which the enclosed are copies.

I am commanded by the Lord Lieutenant to signify his Excellency's approbation of Robert Breakey, at present an inmate of the Belfast Lunatic Asylum, being discharged, it being certified by the governors and physician that he may be liberated without any danger to the public safety.

Sir, Belfast District Lunatic Asylum, 3 July 1837.

At a meeting held this day of the governors of this asylum, the annexed resolution (having reference to the case of a patient sent hither by order of the Lord Lieutenant from Downpatrick Gaol, on 11th April 1836) was entered into, and directions given to me to forward a copy thereof to his Excellency.

(A.)

Resolved, "That report having been made to the Board that Robert Breakey, who was reported at the last meeting to have been seized with mania, had continued in that state till the period of his death, which occurred on the 21st June, the Board cannot but express their deep concern at this termination of a case which had for many months placed them in a difficult and painful predicament, caused, in the first place, by what they consider the irregular admission of the man into the asylum, and then by the impediments thrown in the way of their repeated endeavours to procure his liberation, whilst he was still unaffected by insanity."

Sir, Dublin Castle, 5 July 1837.

With reference to your letter of the 3d instant, on the case of Robert Breakey, I request you will acquaint me on what day Breakey was seized with mania.

R. Stewart, Esq. (signed) T. Drummond.

Belfast District Lunatic Asylum, 6 July 1837.

Dr. Stewart's compliments to Mr. Secretary Drummond, begs, in reply to his favour of this day's receipt, to inform him, that Robert Breakey became affected with acute mania the latter end of May, or about three weeks prior to his death taking place, which, owing to a clerical error, was stated, in Dr. S.'s letter of the 3d instant, to have occurred on the 21st ult., instead of the 19th ult.

Dr. Stewart further begs to state, that the Government order for Breakey's discharge arrived at the asylum on the 12th May, and was communicated accordingly to him, as well as a letter written at the same time to his family, notifying to them to attend at, and remove him forthwith from, the asylum; as, according to the rules of the institution, no inmate is permitted to leave it until a relative or other proper person be in the first instance applied to for such purpose. After waiting a week for an answer from his family without effect, a second letter was then written to Mr. Hall, J. P. of Warrenpoint (on whose property the deceased's family lived), requesting that he would require the object of the first letter being complied with, which letter Mr. H. did not reply to till the 2d ult., he having been from home. Between the period of time that elapsed of the two letters now referrred to being written, Breakey became affected with mania of the most ungovernable description, the symptoms of which continued unabated in violence till the fatal termination, as already stated, took place.

It appeared to Dr. Stewart and Dr. Thomson (and so reported by them to a meeting of the Board on the 5th ult.), that such seizure of mania was the result of excitement consequent on the application for his discharge, which now suddenly developed itself, and was not at all connected with the cause assigned for his being placed in the asylum, the deceased having hitherto never manifested any unsoundness of mind.

T. Drummond, Esq.
&c. &c. &c.

COPY of MEMORANDUM on Dr. Stewart's Letter, dated 6th July 1837.

THE resolution of the Board, marked (A.), is most inaccurate in some important respects. The cause of this man having been confined in the asylum in the first instance, was an improper order left by the Chief Baron; as the prisoner had neither been brought to trial, nor arraigned, and found insane by a jury, no such order should have been made. Some delay took place, in consequence of Mr. Connor, through inadvertence, not having answered my question of 10th November, viz. "What was the crime?"* But after the second communication from the Board, whatever delay took place is imputable either to the officers of the asylum, or to the clerk of the Crown. Though the Board of Superintendence are right in stating that the admission of this man into the asylum was irregular, they are most inaccurate in stating that impediments were thrown in the way of their repeated applications for his liberation.

* See Memorandum on Mr. Stewart's Letter of 9th November.

It is also to be observed, that this unfortunate man died raving mad, very shortly after the medical men had certified as to his perfect sanity.

The man being dead, and a considerable time having elapsed since the receipt of the last letter of the Board of Superintendence, it is unnecessary to make any further communication to the Board on the subject. If any future reference should be made to this case, the annexed papers will fully support the above memorandum.

—No. 2.—

A RETURN of all CRIMES and OUTRAGES reported by the STIPENDIARY MAGISTRATES and OFFICERS of POLICE in Ireland, to the INSPECTOR GENERAL of POLICE, or to the IRISH GOVERNMENT, as having been perpetrated in their respective Districts from the 1st January 1836 to the 12th December 1837; distinguishing such CRIMES and OUTRAGES as were contained in the usual Monthly Reports, and such as were specially reported.

THE following is a copy of that part of the Order of the House of Commons of the 12th December 1837, the information required by which is contained in documents in the Constabulary Office, That there be laid before this House, " Returns of all Crimes and Outrages reported by the Stipendiary Magistrates and Officers of Police in Ireland, to the Inspector General of Police, or to the Irish Government, as having been perpetrated in their respective Districts, from the 1st January 1836 to the 12th December 1837; distinguishing such Crimes and Outrages as were contained in the usual Monthly Reports, and such as were specially reported."

The reports of Outrages since the organization of the Force under the new Act, have only been embodied in general Monthly Returns since July 1836; I therefore now furnish them from July 1836 to December 1837, inclusive; I add some explanation on the subject of these Returns, as without it I consider the subject could not be understood.

The Chief Constables of districts are enjoined by the regulations of the Force to report to me immediately every outrage which occurs within their districts; these Special Reports are embodied numerically in the general Monthly Returns of Outrage.

The Chief Constables make also a Monthly Return of all Convictions at the several Petty Sessions held within their respective districts.

The Monthly Report of Outrages and Returns of Convictions at Petty Sessions form together a more complete view of the Crime of the country than could be obtained from any other mode which has suggested itself to me. As the Chief Constables are urged and obliged to report immediately every Outrage as it becomes known to the Police in their districts, the Monthly Returns of Outrage have the advantage of showing every crime that is committed in the country which is known to the Police; they afford consequently a much more ample view of the actual Crime committed than could be obtained from any Returns of Convictions and Committals.

With respect to the minor offences tried at Petty Sessions, the statement of the actual Convictions will probably be considered as quite sufficient.

There has been no alteration in the form of the Returns since July 1836, but the system was a new one, and I do not consider that I had fully brought it to maturity till April 1837; from August 1836 to March 1837, cases of common assaults and minor larcenies, that ought to have been included in the Returns of Convictions at Petty Sessions, were included in the Monthly Returns of Outrage.

The Order of the House requires that the Return of Crime in each Officer's district should be furnished; the Returns are not made out for districts, but for counties, which will account for that part of the Order not being literally complied with.

I believe that the system of making out a general Monthly Return for Government of the Convictions at Petty Sessions is entirely new, and I only commenced furnishing the Government with that Return last month; but I have the means in my office of furnishing it from a period prior to that. If furnished from the month of April 1837 to the present date, that Return, together with the Monthly Outrage Reports now furnished for the same period, would, I conceive, form the only complete view which can be given of the Crime of the country for that period.

It will be observed that I say from April 1837, as I before mentioned that the Returns were not so fully matured before that period; they have since April 1837 been made up on a uniform system, under the immediate superintendence of the Inspector General, or one of the Deputy Inspectors General.

The Order calls for the Reports of Stipendiary Magistrates; these I do not receive; this, however, cannot affect the accuracy of the numerical Returns, as the Chief Constables are bound to report to me every Crime committed within their districts, of which the Police are cognizant.

Dublin Castle,
19 February 1838.

J. S. Kennedy,
Inspector General of Constabulary.

POLICE FORCE, IRELAND.

RETURN to an ORDER of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 24 November 1837;—for,

COPY of the ORDER and CIRCULAR LETTER of Colonel Shaw Kennedy, dated the 7th of September 1837, relative to the Employment of the POLICE FORCE in Ireland.

HIS Excellency has established the rule, that it is only in cases of urgent necessity that protection is to be afforded to individuals by placing men of the Force in their premises.

When individuals receive such protection, they will, in future, be obliged to provide the men with lodging, bedding, and fuel, and to pay for each man a sum not exceeding 1 s. per night. When men of the Force are thus employed for individual protection, or the protection of any private property, it will be the duty of the officers of the Force fully to inform me of the whole of the circumstances, in order that the daily allowance for each man employed may be regulated according to the circumstances of the case, and the condition of the parties to whom the aid may be afforded.

The payments so made will be credited by the paymaster to the public, in the accounts of the county, by deducting it from the charge for extra allowances; and, to enable him to do so, chief-constables are to account to him, monthly, in their pay-bills. Should there be any suspension of payment the chief-constable is to report to me, through the sub-inspector, the cause of it, and his opinion as to the necessity of continuing the protection. The authority for granting the protection and fixing the rate of charge, is to be annexed to the pay list, where the deduction for it is made. The constables on such duty, being provided with lodging, bedding, and fuel, are not entitled to any allowance for being absent from their quarters at night.

It is clearly to be understood by the officers of the Force, that these regulations will, in no degree, diminish the strictness of the rule by which His Excellency refuses to place or to leave parties for the protection of individuals or of private property, except in cases of urgent necessity; nor will they increase the discretionary power by which the officers of the Force may now, in very urgent cases, afford such protection without reference to me.

Constabulary Office, Dublin Castle,
7 September 1837.

A Plan for Lessening Pauperism.

Doctor Chalmers appears to have carried into effect the principles of the best writers for bettering the condition of the poor, and in publishing a detail of his proceedings for three years, has conferred a great benefit on mankind, though he has not brought forward one new principle.—See Statement respecting Pauperism at Glasgow, by Thomas Chalmers, D.D.

In order to follow his example, the first object is, to obtain assistance from persons satisfied of the truth of these principles.

They must consider themselves appointed rather to prevent pauperism than to distribute alms; both, however, will be their duty.

Dr. Chalmers says, "I, and most of those who acted with me, consider public charity as a very great evil." And the mode in which they appear to have made it almost unnecessary was by the application of the following principles:—

1. That neither public nor private charity can permanently better the condition of the poor by pecuniary assistance.

2. That it is on their own industry and prudence alone that all classes of society must ultimately depend.

3. That none of the funds that charity supplies should be extended to any who are able, and do not labour, however small the remuneration.

4. That those who receive assistance from the funds of charity should not be enabled to have more of the necessaries or comforts of life than the poorest of those who support themselves by their own industry.

5. That persons disabled from earning for themselves, by sickness or accidents, lunatics, blind, very old, or very young, who are at the same time destitute of natural connexions and relations, are the only proper objects of public charity.

6. That early and improvident marriages are the greatest source of poverty.

7. That those charities that have in view the improvement of the character of the poor in a moral, religious, or even in a worldly view, cannot be too liberally supported.

To show that these principles are not the effusions of a novel schemer, or hard-hearted speculator, we would advise those who doubt their general application and truth, and have sufficient leisure, to read the works of the celebrated Adam Smith, Dr. Franklin, Dr. Malthus, Mrs. B.'s Dialogues, and all the modern political economists, as well as Dr. Chalmers' little Report of his entire success in the application of them. Some, indeed, may be convinced of their truth by those of whose good sense and good intentions they are previously satisfied; some by observing the conduct of Quakers to the poor of their fraternity; and all may suspect that there is some truth in them, by observing the bad effects of a contrary system generally pursued, where poverty and misery, without regard to cause or conduct, is made the title to charitable assistance.

The circumstances of the poor are continually changing, and the funds of charity should go to the relief of casual, temporary distress, rather than mere poverty. To the former a small donation may give great relief, without interfering with good habits; applied to the latter, the largest sums are considered more productive of evil than good, by the best writers and ablest statesmen.

Who has ever seen the annuitant of a rich gentleman, or the person on the poor list in our parishes, emerge from that degrading situation? They think that their poverty gives them a title to their little freehold estate, and we have always known them to preserve that title in full force unimpaired. This is by no means the case where assistance is given by neighbours, friends, and relations, whose presence is a check to idleness and imprudence.

To apply Dr. Chalmers' management to the use of an Irish parish, we would divide the parish into walks of about one hundred houses of rich and poor, as they happen to exist; in each walk more or less than that number, according as townlands or local circumstances suggest; to each of these divisions appoint a deacon.

Persons of business, or farmers of from 50 to 150 acres, may be most eligible; but first, they should be satisfied that the duties of the office would not infringe too much on their time. On this part of the subject we refer to Dr. Chalmers,' reckoning upon double the time stated by him as necessary, say two or three hours in a week, or even more, perhaps, in the beginning.

Next, they should be satisfied of the truth of the maxims before laid down. Their consent to undertake the charge and eligibility for the situation being thus ascertained, the duties of the office should be explained:—.

For which purpose it will be necessary for the deacon of each division or district to get a list of the families, the number of persons of which each consists, their means of living, their moral conduct, their connexions by birth and marriage, the number able and unable to labour, &c. He is to admonish the idle and vicious with kindness and firmness, showing them that neither they, nor those whom nature has placed in a situation dependent on them, can get any part of the charity-fund of the parish.

He will find that it is the idle, the imprudent, and the vicious, or their families, that generally apply for charity, and that such persons will be much less inclined to apply to him, or to any one whom they know to be acquainted with their respective characters, than to those they generally petition, and with whom they succeed according to their skill and ingenuity in the art of begging.

They should teach that respectability is not confined to any station in life, and that he who by prudence and foresight is enabled to support his family by his own exertions, is a far more respectable and honourable character than he who lives on the charity of others.

He is to show them how they may provide work for themselves; that, however small the wages may be, they must work, getting the best hire they can, but working for the lowest rather than be idle; that they are to offer their services at public or private works, at a lower rate than they have been in the habit of receiving, if they cannot get the same or a higher rate. That the price lately given by the employer of labour, and the price that the market enables him at any particular time to give, whether higher or lower, are seldom very different. The farmer or manufacturer that will employ no more men at a certain price, proves that he does not think he can employ them with profit at that rate; at the same time, he may be willing to employ an unlimited number at somewhat less hire, knowing that the subject on which they are employed will pay and yield him a profit besides. If the principles laid down are felt by these deacons to be right, they will find various ways of applying them in their admonitions, according to local circumstances: they should show the poor the necessity of lowering their terms, or working better, to enable those who employ them to do so with advantage, and, in consequence, permanently; that, however little the reward of their labour may be, it is something towards their maintenance, gives them the best claim on their wealthier neighbours, and does not prevent, but rather secures, an increased hire, when circumstances, over which neither they nor their employers have any control, will permit. But any assistance, given them merely for employment, and attended with loss in the manufacture, is injudicious, as it cannot be of steady continuance, and injures the poor unassisted rival tradesman.

If assistance be given to those who are in a degree able to help themselves, it should be proportioned to their own exertions.

Patient and kind investigation of the causes of distress, with steady determination not to give pecuniary assistance where sound policy points out that it should be withheld, is perhaps the most difficult task the deacons have to perform; particularly as they may have to work against their natural feelings of benevolence. Dr. Chalmers mentions the report of one of his deacons, who refused support to the destitute families of two runaway husbands; the consequence was, in one instance, the husband came back to the family; in the other, the family found out the man, and went to him; neither of the husbands would have been heard of (Dr. Chalmers thinks) had the parish funds been in any degree applied to the support of the deserted families.

The most considerable contributor, or rather the person most satisfied of the truth of the principles laid down, will be the best chairman. A treasurer should likewise be named at the first meeting. The chairman should have no district of his own, but rather act as judge and arbitrator of claims; he is to keep a book, ruled in columns, for the district, the name of the object, the nature of his or her claim, the time from whence he is to have a weekly payment, the amount of that payment for each month.

The treasurer should have a duplicate of this book, which is to be his authority for giving a certain sum, as agreed upon, to each deacon, being the amount for one month in his district, which the deacon is to divide and pay weekly. The first consideration at each meeting is, the amount of the funds in hand; the next, what sum it may be expedient to give away in the ensuing month; and lastly, with each deacon in succession, inquiring if any new object is to be added or any old discontinued, naming and considering each person in his list individually.

In case of any accident, the deacon will be expected to advance a small sum of his own, the occasion of which he is to describe at the next meeting, and if his conduct is then approved of, such sum is to be refunded to him.

The treasurer is also to keep a common debtor and creditor account, making himself debtor for the weekly collection given him by the churchwarden, &c. &c., and creditor for payment to deacons, as ordered at the monthly meetings, showing the balance in his hands at each period.

The deacons should meet once a month to confer together, and with such persons as contribute to the funds at their disposal, as to the best distribution of them, on the principles before stated; and their ambition, it is hoped, will be, to show how little of the poors' fund the district of each has occasion for.

Cangort Park, December 1823. William Trench.

Postscript.

The foregoing plan has been acted upon in different degrees, in several parishes. Where it has been completely carried into effect, from December 1823, the result has been very encouraging. The different degrees of wealth and comfort, with equal apparent means, arising from prudent and industrious habits, or the reverse, has been the most remarkable circumstance that has come to the knowledge of the deacons, in their first general inspection. In many instances they have found tradesmen poorer than labourers, though earning four times as much when at work. The sacrifice of the deacon's time has been extremely small; two or three hours a day for a few days at the beginning, a few minutes perhaps once a week afterward, when called upon, and about two hours once a month at their meeting for comparing and considering the respective claims, is all the time that has been found necessary to be given by the chairman or deacons for carrying on the system.

In the parish alluded to, the curate is the chairman; a principal landlord has added to the fund the amount of many small pensions that he formerly paid half-yearly, without particular inquiry. The collections in the church have increased fourfold, and the Roman-catholic clergyman, who acts as a deacon to a district, and as such attends the monthly meetings, throws a respectable collection made at his chapel into the common fund; which is thus increased by the contributors knowing, as many of them do by attending the meetings, that a strict scrunity and comparison of the objects takes place monthly, and that proper objects are relieved from those funds which, in consequence of careless and unprincipled distribution, usually tend to promote idleness and bad management.

A Plan for the Relief of the Helpless Poor of Ireland.

Suppose it were enacted, that any two persons having an annual income of 20 l. each, derived out of a tenement in any parish, should be empowered through any magistrate or the clergyman of such parish, to call a meeting of the proprietors of 20 l. per annum or upwards, once in each year, to consider of a contribution to assist the helpless poor.

That

That no interest less that 20 l. per annum in the parish should entitle the owner to a vote at such a meeting.

| 50 — | 2 — |
| 100 — | 3 — |
| 200 — | 4 — |
| 400 — | 5 — |
| 800 — | 6 — |
| 1,600 — | 7 — |
| 3,000 — | 8 — |
| 6,000 — | 9 — |
| 12,000 — | 10 — |

That proxies should have half the number of votes, unless where a father or brother happens to be appointed, in which case the proxy is to vote as if the proprietor.

A majority of votes to have power to lay on a tax not exceeding five per cent. on the value of every tenement.

Two-thirds in number of votes to lay on a tax not exceeding 10 per cent.

The unanimous vote of all attending, and not less than half the number of persons entitled to vote, to be made necessary for any higher rate of assessment.

All persons to pay according to their respective present interests, (through the occupying tenant,) whether landlord, mortgagee, jointure, rent-charge-owner, or otherwise.

The value of each tenement to be considered as it is valued, or may be from time to time, by the existing law relative to parish cess.

The annual meeting of proprietors to appoint deacons in each parish, with separate districts, comprising from 50 to 100 families, of all descriptions. These deacons to act as almoners to the proprietors, with or without salary.

The deacons to make themselves acquainted with the habits, circumstances, means of living, and conduct, of all persons in their respective districts, particularly of those who may be supposed in any degree likely to become objects of the charity.

The deacons to meet monthly, together with any of the proprietors that think fit to attend; they should then consider the new, and reconsider the old, claimants on their funds; acting under the direction given at the annual meeting of proprietors.

It is proposed, that the preamble to the Act should recommend some of the following principles:—

1. That neither public nor private charity can permanently better the condition of the poor, by pecuniary assistance.

2. That it is on their own industry and prudence alone that all classes of society must ultimately depend.

3. That none of the funds that charity supplies should be extended to any who are able, and do not labour, however small the remuneration may be.

4. Those who receive assistance from the funds of charity should not be enabled to have more of the comforts of life than the poorest of those who support themselves by their own industry.

5. That persons disabled from earning for themselves by sickness or accidents, lunatics, blind, very old or very young, who are at the same time destitute of natural connexions in a state of independence, are the only proper objects of public charity.

6. That early and improvident marriages are the greatest source of poverty.

7. That those charities that have in view the improvement of the poor in their moral and religious character, or in knowledge of any trade or craft by which they can better their own condition, cannot be too liberally supported.

An appeal to the quarter sessions in case anything is done under this Act contrary to the true intention.

This plan, with the exception of that part which, by the majority of proprietors only, may be deemed compulsory, has been acted upon with satisfactory results in various parishes since the year 1823. A report of its success in one parish was printed in the year 1826, and quarterly accounts since, to the present time (December 1832), stating the receipts and expenditure.

This plan will not give the poor any legal claim. All assistance from the wealthier classes of the community to paupers will be perfectly voluntary (thus preserving the double blessing*). The givers of the charity will have the appointment and entire control over the persons whom they entrust as their almoners in the distribution, and previous enquiry.

It is generally found that absence and thoughtless disinclination to make the necessary inquiry, rather than selfish parsimony, prevents giving due relief to the helpless poor.

The proposed law would induce all ranks, possessed of a moderate competence, to meet for the purpose of inquiry into the suffering from poverty, and the causes of such poverty, amongst their neighbours.

The smallness of each district, being but a parish, would best prevent jobbing, or a misapplication of the funds.

The respective characters and wants of the poor being thus brought forward together, would be some check to idleness and vice, common sources of poverty ; and would, it is thought, at the same time, produce as much assistance for the poor as sound policy, with a view only to their advantage, would dictate, though perfectly voluntary as between rich and poor.

A Plan for the Relief and Lessening of Pauperism.

The importance and the difficulty of relieving distress without increasing its amount by encouraging idleness, have been the subject of daily increasing thought and observation ; and since the exercise of the most self-sacrificing benevolence, unguided by sound principles, must prove nugatory, if not injurious, we subjoin a few principles, which have been generally admitted by those writers who have most deeply and successfully studied the subject, and upon a strict adherence to which must depend the success of the plan herein proposed.

Principles:

1. That neither public nor private charity can permanently ameliorate the condition of the poor, by pecuniary assistance.
2. That it is only on their own industry and prudence that all classes of society must ultimately depend.
3. That no portion of the funds of charity should be extended to any who can, but do not labour, however small the remuneration.
4. That those who receive assistance from charitable funds should not be enabled to have more of the necessaries or comforts of life, than the poorest of those who support themselves by their own industry.
5. That persons disabled by sickness or accidents from earning for themselves, lunatics, blind, very old or very young, who are at the same time destitute of natural connexions and relations in a state of independence, are the only proper objects of public charity.
6. That early and improvident marriages are the greatest source of poverty.
7. That charities which have in view the improvement of the character of the poor, in a moral, religious, or worldly view, enabling them to help themselves, as schools, hospitals, &c., cannot be too liberally supported.

The following plan, founded upon the above principles, has been successfully adopted in the parish of Cloghjordan since the year 1823, and in many other Irish parishes within a later period. In every instance, the subject being brought into notice and supported by one person of leading situation or property in the parish, has been found sufficient for carrying the plan into effect. Funds have never in such a case been wanting, as it is thoughtlessness or disinclination to make the necessary inquiries, rather than selfish parsimony, which prevents the affluent from giving sufficiently to relieve the helpless poor.

To create a fund for the weekly relief of those whom unavoidable circumstances render deserving claimants upon public charity, it is proposed to submit the the following plan for the consideration and subscription of those who derive income from the parish of . . . . . . the principal of whom are, . . . . . .

. . . . . .

The parish should be divided into districts containing about 100 houses of rich and poor, more or less than that number according as townlands or other local circumstances suggest. To each of these districts a deacon should be appointed.

All the deacons, and as many contributors to the charity as will attend, should, with open doors, meet once a month to deliberate upon the best distribution of the funds on the principles before stated.

The most considerable contributor, or rather the person most convinced of the truth of the principles, will be the best chairman. The chairman should have no district of his own, but should act as judge and arbitrator of claims; he should keep a book ruled in columns for, the district and deacon the name of the pauper, the nature of his or her claim, and the amount of payment for each month.

A treasurer should be appointed at the first meeting, who should have a duplicate of the chairman's book, which is to be his authority for giving weekly the sum agreed upon at the monthly meeting.

The treasurer should also keep a common debtor and creditor account, making himself debtor for the collection given to him by the churchwardens, subscribers, &c.; and creditor for the payments ordered at the monthly meetings, showing at each meeting the balance in his hands; and a quarterly account of the expenditure should be printed and sent to each contributor.

The first consideration at each meeting should be, the amount of the funds in hands, and the next, what sum it may be expedient to give away during the ensuing month; after which the claims of each individual upon the list of each deacon should be considered by the meeting; any new claimants proposed by the deacon; their wants and characters discussed and compared; and the names discontinued of those who are found no longer to require assistance.

In case of any accident, the deacon will be expected to advance a small sum of his own, the occasion for which he should describe at the next meeting, and if his conduct be then approved, such sum should be refunded to him.

Persons of business, or farmers of from 50 to 100 acres, are found most eligible as deacons; but first, they should be satisfied that the duties of the office would not infringe too much upon their time. Independently of attendance at the monthly meeting, two or three hours in a month will be found sufficient after they have made themselves acquainted with the character and circumstances of all the labouring poor in their respective districts, which is the deacon's first duty, and which may occupy him for a day or two at the beginning.

They must next be convinced of the truth of the principles before laid down; and their consent to undertake the charge, and their eligibility for the situation being thus ascertained, the duties of the office should be thus explained.

The deacon of each district is to make, for his own use, a list of the families; the numbers which each contains; their means and mode of living; their moral conduct; their connexions by birth and marriage; the number able and unable to labour, &c. He is kindly but firmly to admonish the idle and the vicious, showing them that while their characters continue such, neither they nor those who are dependent on them can be allowed any portion of the parish charity fund.

He is to point out that respectability is not confined to any station of life, and that he who with prudence and foresight supports his family by his own exertions is a far more respectable and honourable character than he who lives upon the charity of others.

He is to show them how they may provide work for themselves, impressing upon them that however small the wages may be, they ought to work, getting the best hire they can, but working for the lowest rather than be idle; that they ought to offer their services at public or private works at a lower rate than they have been in the habit of receiving, if they cannot get the same or a higher rate; that the price the employer can give with profit to himself, is seldom much lower than what he has lately given, and that as he may feel reluctance in offering a lower rate, he must, when markets are falling, be solicited by the reduced offer of the workman; and that when markets improve the workman may demand higher wages, and if refused, go to another employer, who under these circumstances will gladly give him employment; that the farmer or manufacturer who will employ no more men at a certain price, proves that he does not think he can employ them with profit at that rate; though at the same time he may be willing to employ an unlimited number at somewhat less hire, knowing that the subject on which they are employed will then pay and yield him a profit besides.

If the deacon feels the truth of the principles, he will find various ways of applying them in his admonitions, according to local circumstances; he will prove to the poor the necessity of lowering their terms, or working better, to enable those who employ them to do so with advantage, and in consequence, permanently; that however little the reward of their labour may be, it is something towards their maintenance, gives them the best claim on their wealthier neighbours, and secures for them rather than prevents an increased hire, when circumstances over which neither they nor their employers have any control, will permit; but that any assistance given them merely for employment, and attended with loss in the manufacture, is injudicious, as it cannot be of steady continuance, and injures the poor unassisted rival tradesman.

Want of employment is an evil very generally complained of. Human labour does not, like merchandize, go quickly to the place in which it is most in demand, because happily there are now no merchants dealing in it, and it has only the weak tendency to find its way to the best market which corn would have were there no corn merchants. The deacon should, therefore, explain to his poor: 1st, The nature of the principle which takes, or tends continually to take, all transferable articles to the place where they are most in demand, and will consequently bring the highest price; 2dly, The obstacles which prevent the free operation of this principle upon labour; and, 3dly, The advantages arising from overcoming these difficulties, and by a judicious change of place, transferring their labour from a bad to a good market.

A young unmarried man can earn two or three fold the amount necessary for his own maintenance according to the usage of his class in this country. Half a year's saving of this surplus may enable him to go well clad to England; there he may in a few months realize a sufficient sum to enable him to seek his fortune in America, where one-fourth of his earnings will exceed his necessary expenses; and this, wherever found, is wealth and ample independence.

Were the ease and advantages of emigration thus set forth, and the apparent accompanying difficulties obviated, the lower class of young Irishmen would emigrate in much greater numbers than they do at present, and thus far independence and comfort would be substituted for that wretchedness which generally attends the Irishman's usual course of marrying early, and consequently dividing with a family that surplus of his own maintenance which in the first years of manhood might have constituted the foundation of his wealth, but which is barely sufficient to maintain a family in extreme penury.

Nor is the advantage confined to the emigrators; for the same work being left at home for fewer to execute, will receive higher payment.

The deacon's most difficult task will be a kind and patient investigation of the causes of distress, accompanied by a steady determination not to give pecuniary assistance where sound policy points out that it should be withheld.

Dr. Chalmers, in the Report of the management of the poor in his parish in Glasgow, mentions his refusing support to the destitute families of two runaway husbands, and states, as the consequence, that in one case the husband returned to the family, in the other the family went to the husband. Dr. Chalmers thinks that neither of the men would have been heard of, had any portion of the parish funds been applied to the support of the deserted families.

The circumstances of the poor are continually changing; and the relief of casual, temporary distress is a far more legitimate employment of public charity than the relief of mere poverty. A small donation may, without interfering with the independence of the receiver, materially alleviate such accidental distress; whereas the largest sum given to those whose only claim is poverty, and without adverting to its cause, is considered by the best writers and most able statesmen as more productive of evil than of good.

It has often been observed that neither the annuitant of a gentleman, nor the person on our parish poor list, ever emerges from that degrading situation; and the cause is obvious. They think that their poverty forms their title to their little freehold estate, and this title they fail not to preserve in full force. But this this is by no means the case where assistance is given by neighbours, friends, or relations, whose eye is a check to idleness and imprudence.

It is the indolent, the imprudent, and the vicious, or their families, who generally apply for charity, and such persons will be much less inclined to apply to one whom they know to be acquainted with their respective characters, than to those whom they generally petition, and with whom they succeed, not according to their merit, but according to their skill and ingenuity in the art of begging.

In many instances where benevolent persons, seeing the apparent wants of the poor, have been induced to supply them with clothing, fuel, food, blankets, &c., these articles have been exchanged for whisky or tea, and the writer could recount many cases of very ridiculous frauds of this description practised upon benevolent ladies. Whereas the character of the applicant being represented and fully discussed among a class of persons who are the least liable to be imposed upon, forms the most effectual safeguard against a misapplication of the funds; and by giving money where unavoidable cause of poverty exists, it becomes a ticket for whatever the unfortunate poor feel to be most needful; and on this point the receiver, and not the giver of charity, is the only competent judge. In the proposed system there is also another means of detecting imposition, which has been found practically very efficacious, and which arises from an apparent evil, namely, the limited and moderate sum to be distributed. This causes competition, competition causes inquiry, and inquiry elicits truth. The deacon applying for relief for A in his district, knows something of the character of B or C, in whose behalf a similar sum is demanded by a brother deacon, and in order to establish the superior claims of his client, willingly exposes every error or mis-statement made by his rival; the merits of both cases are compared and freely discussed by the meeting; vice and idleness are generally detected, while the fairer claim is admitted, and thus charity, as it were, in self defence, exposes imposition.

In this way those who are willing to devote a large portion of their time and attention to the cause of charity, can do so with increased benefit. The view of the circumstances of the poor obtained from themselves at their own houses will be corrected at the monthly meetings by persons acquainted with their real character, and thereby the danger of benevolence being hardened into indifference by repeated imposition will be lessened.

Were this system generally adopted in Ireland, it might perhaps obviate the necessity for any system of legislative parochial relief; and under this impression many persons have been led to approve of the proposed plan, from an apprehension lest any poor law, however guarded, (like the 43d of Elizabeth) might, by being practically infringed upon (as in England,) or by being added to in a season of popular commotion, become a source of injury and demoralization to the lower classes of society.

There is nothing showy in this plan, no parade of the objects benefited, but its advantages consist in its inducing persons of different ranks to join for the accomplishment of the same desirable object, and to contribute, according to circumstances, either their time and labour, or their purse, and abstract knowledge upon a subject so difficult and till lately so little understood; relieving distress without encouraging idleness or causing poverty; enabling the helpless poor to have nearly as much of the comforts of life as the poorest of those who ask not charity; avoiding that jobbing which is so common where buying or selling is connected with the relief of the poor; and not trespassing more than four or five hours in a month on the time of any person engaged in carrying it into effect.

It is thought expedient to print and distribute this and similar reports, at short intervals, for the satisfaction of subscribers, but more particularly to enable the public to compare and point out any misapplication of the funds, inconsistent with the principles first stated, in order that any abuse may be corrected at the monthly meeting that takes place, with open doors, in Kinnitty, at the hour of two, the first Monday in each month, when the inspectors attend to represent any new cases that may occur, and to re-consider each of the former objects of charity.

Fourth Report of the Ahascragh Charitable Loan Society, Established 1833.

Patrons:—Right Honourable Lord Clonbrock, and Sir Ross Mahon, Bart.

Trustees:—The Rev. Henry Hunt, Rector of Ahascragh; Charles Filgate, Esq. J. P.

REPORT.

During the past year 4,290 l. has been lent out to 1,050 borrowers, making a total of 3,590 loans, amounting to the sum of 13,461 l. circulated by the loan bank since its commencement, without sustaining any loss. Notwithstanding the reduction of interest charged on loans, a profit has been realized this year amounting to 41 l. 3 s. 1 d., of which sum 25 l. has been appropriated to the purchase of blankets and clothing for the poor, and 16 l. 3 s. 1 d. added to the capital stock. Nothing can be more regular and satisfactory than the weekly payments of the borrowers, with very few exceptions; and legal proceedings have seldom to be resorted to.

Could the people be brought to see the ruinous consequences resulting from whisky-drinking, which takes from them the produce of their industry, the profits arising from loans of money, judiciously managed, would soon raise them from poverty and wretchedness to comfort and independence. It too frequently happens, that when a tradesman finds he has realized a little money, after paying his regular instalments, instead of adding that sum to his next loan, and thereby increasing his capital, he visits the public-house, and squanders his earnings; on his next application for a loan, perhaps he finds himself excluded, and in a worse state than at first—without character, and without money to carry on his business. A few cases of this kind have occurred, and it is hoped the example made of such persons will have some effect on others.

COPY of a LETTER from William Trench, Esq. to Sir Frederick W. Trench.

My dear General, 14 March 1838.

The Deacon Plan has been adopted to a considerable extent, 20 miles endways near this.

The last place at which it was adopted, at Ballinasloe, the curate that my son Frederick had at Cloughjordan saw how it worked there for several years; he communicated it to his uncle, Mr. Jones, who was beneficed near Edgworthstown, at Clonbrony; he had it for some years in operation, when he was removed to Ballinasloe, where our late kinsman, Clancarty, adopted it to the amount of 300 l., three hundred pounds per annum, as his own subscription. Was not that magnificent!

My plan as a substitute for a compulsory poor law has one recommendation, it requires no outlay for houses. Where parishes are large, I think that instead of unions, there should be subdivisions to the amount of about 1,000 souls, or 200 or 300 houses; in so small a circle the character of each claimant would be known to all.

I can see no reason why a mortgagee or owner of jointure should not pay each his or her quota, the present rate of interest would generally prevent mortgagees from calling in their money, as very few, if any, receive less than five per cent., and Government Stock pays less than 3 l. 5 s. per cent., the difference 35 s. per cent. on income.

RAILROAD COMMISSION, IRELAND.

RETURN to an Order of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 30 July 1838;—for,

Copy of TREASURY MINUTE, dated 3 November 1836, respecting the Railroad Commission for Ireland.

Copy of TREASURY MINUTE, dated 3 November 1836.

The Viscount Melbourne and the Chancellor of the Exchequer call the attention of the Board to a Commission which has been issued in pursuance of an Address presented to his Majesty by the House of Lords, on the 1st of August 1836.

By that Address his Majesty was humbly requested "to appoint persons of competent authority to consider and to report upon the principal lines of communication in Ireland, with reference to the comparative advantages and facilities they afford for the construction of railways; and that, with a view to ascertain the best lines between any of the principal places in Ireland which it may be desirable to connect by railways, and for which works joint-stock companies may be willing hereafter to apply to Parliament, his Majesty will be graciously pleased to direct such assistance to be afforded by the Board of Public Works towards a general survey of such lines as to his Majesty may seem fit."

My Lords will watch with the greatest interest the progress of the inquiry thus instituted; they feel it, however, to be the duty of Government to guard against any inference that it is their intention to interfere with private enterprize, in its legitimate application to purposes either of local or general improvement; they also feel it necessary that it should be distinctly understood that, by obtaining this information, no intention or pledge is either expressed or implied that works of this description should be undertaken at the public expense.

The main benefits to be obtained, appear to my Lords to be the impartial and authoritative information which may thus be laid before Parliament, and which will aid the Legislature in deciding between rival and conflicting interests, the tendency which it will have of preventing ruinous competitions, and the losses and expenses of litigations before Committees, and the facilities which may be afforded to capitalists and to companies to judge of the most advantageous mode in which investments in railroads can be made.

With this view, it appears to my Lords that it would be necessary first to ascertain the cities, towns, or harbours between which railroad communications are most likely to be profitable to the undertakers and useful to the public, in reference to the progress and development of agriculture, commerce, and manufactures; and more especially to the cheap, rapid, and certain intercourse between Great Britain and Ireland. This inquiry would necessarily embrace the consideration of such great trunk lines as are most capable of extended application and usefulness, having a due reference to such lines as shall combine engineering facilities with a provision for the wants of the existing population, and the extension and promotion of commerce and agriculture.

My Lords are quite aware that it would not be practicable, without great delay and expense, to obtain such minute surveys and estimates as would ultimately be required for the actual execution of these works. All that can be obtained by the proposed survey is a correct general view, on which more precise and minute investigation can be hereafter provided by those who may practically undertake the execution of these important works.

It will be necessary, where the proposed lines may lead to cities, towns, ports, harbours, or navigable rivers, to ascertain, as far as possible, the extent of commerce, and the nature and amount of the produce of the several places and districts, and thus to form some estimate of the advantages of the undertakings, not excluding however the future increase which facilities of rapid intercourse may produce.

My Lords have full confidence, from the character of the gentlemen appointed to form the Commission, that their inquiries will be conducted in a satisfactory manner.

The important operations which have been carried on, and are still in progress, under the direction of the Board of Ordnance, will furnish the Commissioners much valuable information, and will greatly assist and facilitate their proceedings; and they have no doubt that the Master-General will authorize and permit Colonel Colby to give the aid of his eminent scientific and professional acquirements and great experience in any way that the Commissioners may request, which does not interfere with or retard the great and important duties with which he is entrusted.

Transmit copy of this Minute to Mr. Phillipps, for the information of Lord John Russell, and request that, if his Lordship agrees with the views of the Board, he will make the necessary communication to the Commissioners and to the Board of Ordnance.

COUNTY OF ANTRIM.

THERE is not, that I am aware of, any salary or emolument attached to the office of high-sheriff in this county. The grand jury, at each assize, present for the sheriff a sum of 50 l. Irish, but by what statute, or for what purpose, I am unable to say. This sum the under-sheriff receives. As high-sheriff for this county in 1835, I was out of pocket something above 100 l.

Hugh Lecky,
Late High-sheriff.

Bushmills, 28 March 1837.

---

Sir, Bushmills, 28 March 1837.

I BEG to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 21st of March, enclosing a copy of an Order of The House of Commons, dated the 11th instant; I lost no time in forwarding both to the under-sheriff for Antrim for 1835. His reply to me is, that he will use due diligence in making out the Return required. Many of his accounts with the solicitors are still unpaid; many of them never will, as there is not any remedy to enforce payment. As soon as he possibly can, he will forward to the Castle the amount of the sum received, with that still due, the several sources of emolument attached to the office of under-sheriff, together with all his expenses, and his opinion as to the operation of the Act of the 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 75, "An Act to regulate the Proceedings of the Civil-Bill Courts in Ireland."

I have, &c.
signed) Hugh Lecky.

RETURN of the High-sheriff for 1836.

Sheriff's salary, as paid by county under 4 Geo. 4, c. 43, 92 l. 6 s. 2 d.

The salary the under-sheriff claims as his right; the high-sheriff is therefore entitled to none.

The expenses are incidental and uncertain.

The sheriffs being, by the late Act, permitted to be sworn in and to pass their accounts in the county, the expense of going to Dublin is avoided.

N. B.—The under-sheriff has not included the foregoing sum of 92 l. 6 s. 2 d. in his Return; it should be added to it.

Edward Bruce,
Late High-sheriff.

Lieutenant Burt,
28 March 1837.

J. Caulfd M'Kinstry,
Under-sheriff for the years 1834 and 1835.

---

PROBABLE RETURN of the Expenses incurred by the Sheriff for the Year 1836, not including Car-hire, &c. &c. of his Sub-sheriff, attendant on the execution of the different Writs.

| | £. s. d. |
|---|---|
| Judges' criers at assizes | 20 – – |

| Clothing for bailiffs, say | 50 – – |
| Returning-officer, and deeds of appointment of sub-sheriff, &c. &c. | 65 – – |
| £. | 198 – – |

The under-sheriff not having kept an account of his expenses in the execution of writs, &c., is not certain as to the correctness of this Return, nor is he prepared to say whether the fees received were strictly legal or not; but is convinced he charged no fees that were not customary, and believes them also to be legal. As to the operation of the new Civil-Bill Act, he conceives it will cause considerable reduction in the sheriff's fees, and the fee allowed by it for executing ejectment decrees will not, in most cases, pay the expense attendant, particularly if it is imperative on the under-sheriff to attend in person.

487

A RETURN of the Emoluments arising from the Office of Sheriff, and the Expenses attendant thereon, for the Year 1836.

THE High-sheriff derives no emolument whatever from his office. The under-sheriff, who performs the duties, receives the salary and fees; in some cases he bears the high-sheriff's expenses; in the present instance, however, the high-sheriff paid his own. The emoluments received by the under-sheriff in the above year, as near as can be ascertained, are as follows:

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Yearly salary presented by the county | 73 | 16 | 10 |
| Additional half year for adjourned assizes | 36 | 18 | 5 |
| Legal per-centage on executions | 275 | 11 | 6 |
| Warrants on marked writs, at 3 s. 4 d. | 35 | – | – |
| Bail to - - ditto - - at 1 l. 6 s. 8 d. | 13 | 10 | – |
| Warrants on civil-bill decrees at, 11 d., say | 50 | – | – |
| Ditto on writs of habere facias possessionem, at 2 l. 10 s. | 30 | – | – |
| Fees on scire facias summonses, say | 1 | – | – |
| Fees on chancery replevin | 2 | – | – |
| £. | 517 | 16 | 9 |
| Deduct Expenses (see p. 4) | 198 | – | – |
| £. | 319 | 16 | 9 |

Besides the above, there is a sum of about 50 l. due to the under-sheriff on writs, &c. which, in all probability, will never be paid.

—— Alexander, Sheriff.

By reference to the foregoing Return, it will appear that a considerable diminution of income may be expected by the operation of the late Civil-Bill Act, as, had it been in force during the last three years, the fee of 10 s. 6 d. on execution of each ejectment decree would, by no means, compensate for the loss of the original fees, on the average of three years, 1834, 1835, and 1836. A loss of 120 l. per annum appears as the net loss by the account furnished.

Under-sheriff for the Years 1834, 1835, and 1836.

COUNTY OF CLARE.

A RETURN of the Total Amount of Salary and Emoluments attached to the Office of High-sheriff and Sub-sheriff for the Year 1836.

| The sheriff's fee of 1*l.* for his warrant on each civil-bill decree amounted from the 10th February to the 1st November 1836, when same ceased by the operation of the Act 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 75, to about | 150 | – | – |

| Fees for warrants on marked writs (the customary fee in the county of Clare is 1*l.* for each warrant) | 10 | – | – |

The fees for warrants on civil-bill decrees, which were put an end to by the Act 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 75, (but which are by a subsequent Act restored), averaged in the county of Clare about 200*l.* a year, and to this extent a diminution of income to the sheriff resulted from the operation of that Act. Its operation from November 1836 to February 1837 occasioned a loss to the sub-sheriff of about 50*l.*

16 March 1838.

Peter O'Halloran, Under-sheriff for the year 1836.

James B. Ballard,
One of the Sheriffs for the year 1836.

COUNTY OF DONEGAL.

THE high-sheriff does not derive any fee, emolument, or salary whatever from the office.

In the year 1835 the fees received by the sub-sheriff for signing civil-bill decrees amounted to about 150*l.* In the year 1836 the fees received by the sub-sheriff for signing decrees was 100*l.*; had he received fees on the decrees pronounced by the assistant-barrister at the December quarter sessions of that year (which the operation of the Act 6 & 7 Will. 4 prevented), he would have received upwards of 50*l.*, in addition to the 100*l.*

From the above statement it is evident that the emoluments of the office of sub-sheriff will be decreased at least 150*l.* per annum, in consequence of taking from him the fees hitherto paid on signing civil-bill decrees.

The only salary received by the sub-sheriff is 92*l.* 6*s.* 2*d.*, paid to him by the county, in lieu of all gaol fees.

There are not any customary fees paid to the sub-sheriff; all other fees received by him are strictly legal fees, and the amount of such legal fees it is impossible to fix with any degree of certainty; but on an average, for the years 1835 and 1836, they amounted to 200*l.* per annum.

Lifford, 2 April 1837.

Samuel John Crookshank,
Sub-sheriff for the years 1835 and 1836.

The high-sheriff does not derive emoluments of any kind from the office, all fees and salary being given by him to the under-sheriff, who in consequence defrays the expenses attendant on both offices; the net amount of such expenses it is impossible to fix with any degree of certainty, same depending entirely upon circumstances; but on an average for the years 1835, 1836, and 1837 they amounted to about 200 l. per annum.

The only salary received by the under-sheriff is 94 l., presented by the grand jury on the county, in lieu of all gaol fees.

There are not any customary fees whatever received by the under-sheriff, all his fees being strictly legal fees; the exact amount of such legal fees during the years 1835, 1836 and 1837 (independent of fees on civil-bill decrees) amounted, on an average, to about 250 l. per annum.

In the year 1835 the fees received by the under-sheriff for signing civil-bill decrees amounted to about 150 l. In the year 1836 the fees received by him amounted to about 100 l.; but had he received fees on the decrees pronounced by the assistant-barrister at the December quarter sessions in 1836, when the operation of the Act of 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 75, first came into force, he would have received upwards of 50 l. in addition to the 100 l.

From the above statement it is evident the emoluments of the office of under-sheriff would have been decreased at least 150 l. per annum had the Act 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 75, continued in force; as the law now stands, I consider 150 l. per annum a fair average of fees received by the under-sheriff for signing civil-bill decrees during the years 1835 and 1836.

Lifford, 12 March 1838.

Samuel John Crookshank,
Sub-sheriff for the years 1835, 1836, and 1837.

The Act of 6 & 7 Will. 4, so far as it diminishes the sheriff's emoluments for the signing of warrants for the execution of civil-bill decrees, has been repealed by the Act 1 Victoria.

The 6 & 7 Will 4 gives a fee of 10*s.* 6*d.* to the sheriff for giving possession under a civil-bill ejectment decree, which compensates in some degree for the loss of haberes from superior courts in consequence of the jurisdiction given to assistant-barristers in ejectment cases.

George Wood, late Sub-sheriff.

| Deduct incidental expenses | 402 6 3 | | | |
| TOTAL Profits in 1834 £. | 366 – – | | | |

The high-sheriff has not any salary or emoluments.

[a] This sum is fully expended preparing for and attending the assizes.

[b] There is 300*l.* a year lost in the income by the operation of the 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 75; 250*l.* thereof for signing civil-bill decrees, and 50*l.* on executing civil-bill ejectment decrees, as it was heretofore customary to pay 50*s.* to the sub-sheriff, when his presence and a force were required.

[c] I have in the next week to travel 70 miles, to turn out 45 families under one civil-bill ejectment decree, at the suit of Mr. Andrew Persse Martin, for which I have been sent the legal fee of 10*s.* 6*d.*

The expenses of the sub-sheriff and the necessary force required on such duty is enormous in such an extensive county as Galway, where there are a vast number of civil-bill ejectment decrees.

[d] There are now six additional quarter sessions, making altogether 14, for which I do not receive any remuneration, although I am at very great expense preparing jurors for each sessions, and attending with self and bailiffs.

I compute that I shall be 500*l.* out of pocket by holding the situation this year, if Parliament in its wisdom shall not consider the matter.

Joseph Henry Cowan, Sub-sheriff.

William Stannard, late High-sheriff.
William Hayden, late Sub-sheriff.

A RETURN of the Total Amount of Salary and Emoluments attached to the Office of High and Sub-sheriff for the Year 1836, with a Statement of the Expenses, so far as the same can be ascertained.

THE salary presented for the sheriff of the county of Kilkenny, for the year 1836 and the two preceding years, was 55*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.* annually.

In said year there were 2,273 civil-bill decrees signed by said sheriff, upon which he received a fee of 1*s.* each, making the sum of 113*l.* 13*s.*

The number of haberes and injunctions delivered to the said sheriff and executed by him was 31, upon each of which he was entitled to a fee of 2*l.* 6*s.* 2*d.*, making in the whole 71*l.* 11*s.* 2*d.*; but in some instances, where this fee was not sufficient to cover the expenses of bailiffs and travelling expenses, the parties voluntarily paid a larger fee, but which in every case was entirely optional with them.

The gross amount of sums levied and received under writs of fieri facias, capias ad respondendum, and extents did not exceed 1,700*l.*, upon which said sheriff was entitled to a fee of 1*s.* in the pound for the first 100*l.* levied on each execution, and 6*d.* in the pound for any sum levied over the first 100*l.*; but it is now impossible for said sheriff to say what emolument he derived from this source, as the expenses of levying same under 26 different writs, and the sums paid bailiffs driving, and keeping goods when seized, as well as sheriff's travelling expenses, and other incidental expenses, are not known, and cannot now be ascertained. In many instances those expenses exceeded the fees payable, owing principally to hostile and fraudulent claims of property, and claims for rent by landlords, by which difficulties and delays were thrown in the way of the execution of said writs; and, in addition to which, there were other executions upon which said sheriff was unable to levy any portion of the amount, and sustained considerable losses in the effort to put them in force.

The following are the customary fees payable on the under-mentioned writs, with the number executed by the sheriff of said county for the year 1836:

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2 Chancery replevins, bail-bonds, warrants, &c., each | 3 | 3 | – |
| 28 warrants on mesne process, each | – | 16 | 8 |
| 2 bail-bonds where defendants arrested | 2 | 2 | – |
| 7 attachments where defendants arrested | 3 | 3 | – |
| 1 writ of inquiry of damages | 3 | 3 | – |
| 10 distringas juratorum | – | 13 | 4 |
| 1 special jury, distringas, panels, &c. | 3 | – | – |

The said last-mentioned fees are merely customary, and do not appear settled by any particular enactment, and in many instances the parties refuse to pay them, and there does not appear that there is any legal mode of enforcing them, and consequently the payment is frequently evaded.

The sums levied under green-wax process during said year, and paid by parties when arrested, amounted to 105*l.*, upon which a fee of 3*s.* 4*d.* in the pound is payable to said sheriff, which would amount to 20*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*

The emoluments of said office were greatly diminished by 5 & 6 Will. 4, c. 55, which did away with proceedings by elegit and custodiam, from which a considerable portion of the emoluments of said office were heretofore derivable.

By the 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 75, a further reduction has taken place by the taking away of the fees payable on civil-bill decrees. By this enactment, which came into force on the 1st November last, being three months before the expiration of the year of office of said sheriff, he sustained a considerable loss, the number of decrees actually signed by said sheriff since the October and January sessions being but 407, whereas the entries at said sessions amounted to 2,826; and by the same Act a duty is imposed on sheriffs of executing decrees to possession within one week after delivery for a fee of 10*s.* 6*d.*, which would not, in nine instances out of ten, pay the travelling expenses, and expenses of bailiffs, independent of any remuneration for the time and labour of the sheriff in the performance of a most disagreeable duty; and a further duty of issuing replevins, preparing and signing bail-bonds and warrants, for a fee of 3*s.* 4*d.*, which is also quite inadequate to the trouble and responsibility.

The expenses incidental to the office of sheriff in this county may moderately be calculated at 200*l.* per annum, without including the expenses attendant upon the execution of writs,

| | £. | s. | d. |

Observations.—A considerable diminution has taken place in the emoluments of the office of sub-sheriff for this county by means of the above-recited Act, as regards the issuing of replevins, which are now issued from and tried at the court of quarter sessions; and also as regards to execution of writs of habere and marked writs, which will be much decreased by the extension of the jurisdiction of said court.

John Moreton,
Under-sheriff.

COUNTY OF LIMERICK.

RETURN of the Salary and Emoluments of the High-sheriff and Sub-sheriff for the Year 1834, with the Expenses attendant upon the said Offices.

| The high-sheriff's income | | | none. |

The legal fees include 120*l.*, or thereabouts, fees received on warrants upon civil-bill decrees, which fees are abolished by the recent Act for regulating the civil-bill courts.

The customary fees are principally made up of the following items:—

£. 1. 6. 8. for each warrant granted upon a marked writ or attachment, there being by law no fee for executing such writs, or granting a warrant thereon.

£. 2. 13. 10. generally paid in addition to the legal fee of 2*l.* 6*s.* 2*d.* for executing an habere, when the circumstances of the case make it necessary for the sub-sheriff to execute the writ in person. This addition to the legal fee being entirely dependent on the consideration of the party, is frequently not paid.

2*s.* Irish on each summons served under a scire facias to revive a judgment. In some cases the number of summonses is so great that the fee amounts to a considerable sum (in one instance in this year it amounted to 20*l.*); but not being recoverable by law, the plaintiff's attorney sometimes leaves the writ upon the sub-sheriff's hands, after putting him to the expense and trouble of executing it.

£. 1. 6. 8. on each replevin sued out of the county court. This fee amounts to about 21*l.* a year, but is abolished by the Act before referred to.

In this year the sub-sheriff was, by the contrivance of a pettifogging attorney, involved in a lawsuit for a penalty under an Act of Parliament; and though the merits of the case were with the defendant, yet the letter of the law left nothing to the judge or jury. The defendant therefore gave up the contest, and paid penalty and costs to the amount of 40*l.*

The customary fees are principally made up of the following items:—

5 l. for executing each writ of assistance, there being no fee by law. This writ was brought into existence by the proceedings for tithes in this year, and its use has now ceased altogether; it cannot be depended on as a source of income, though in this year it produced the sub-sheriff 65 l.

1 l. 6 s. 8 d. for each warrant granted upon a marked writ or attachment, there being by law no fee for executing such writ, or granting a warrant thereon.

2 l. 13 s. 10 d. generally paid, in addition to the legal fee of 2 l. 6 s. 2 d., for executing an habere, when the circumstances of the case make it necessary for the sub-sheriff to execute the writ in person. ## COUNTY OF LONDONDERRY.

Sir, Londonderry, 25 March 1837.

THE amount of salary, or sum of money allowed by the county to the sheriffs, is 92 l. 6 s. 1 d. a year, in lieu of fees formerly presented for discharged prisoners. The emoluments are derived from fees payable on executions and writs, which are very uncertain, it would be impossible to ascertain the amount for the periods mentioned. As to the operation of the Act 6 & 7 Will. 4, it operates against the sheriff, as it takes from him 1 d. on each decree, which sometimes amounted to a considerable sum; the expenses are also uncertain, no particular account having been kept.

THE expense of the high-sheriff in this county (being a small one, and consequently not so much received by the fees of the office) is from 160 l. to 180 l. for the year, as he is obliged to pay the person who acts as under-sheriff.

The expenses of the office during the year (exclusive of the high-sheriff's expenses), and which are paid by the under-sheriff, may be from 100 l. to 110 l.

I do not consider the Act of the 6 & 7 Will. 4 will much increase or diminish the income in the office in this county, as the number of ejectment decrees are few, and the civil-bill decrees are paid for as they used to be previous to said Act.

The number of writs contained in this Return is not more than one-third of the number delivered during the year, but as the sheriff is not entitled to fees on any writs but those executed, it is therefore confined to such.

The diminution of office fees will amount to at least 70 l., in consequence of the Act 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 75, abolishing fees on civil-bill decrees, and has been felt towards the close of the year to an amount of about 25 l.; the fee of 10 s. 6 d. on executing personally or by a responsible deputy, a decree in civil-bill ejectment is not only inadequate as a substitute, but is in itself an absolute loss, the sheriff being frequently obliged, when called on to execute in person, to bring with him a civil force, the expense and necessary refreshment of which far exceeds the amount of fee; and when the parties require a responsible deputy, the whole amount is in most cases inadequate for the purpose, thus leaving the sheriff responsibility without any remuneration.

There has been a falling off of the fees of the office for the last three years at least one-half: and to compare the present emoluments with those previous to the year 1830, there would be a falling off of two-thirds.

| £. | 552 | 11 | 5 |

Note.—These fees have been abolished by the 6 & 7 of Will. 4, c. 75. The duty discharged by the sub-sheriff, in relation to these fees, was, it is true, merely signing the warrant; but sub-sheriff was and is obliged to attend personally at the assistant-barrister's court with his bailiffs during its sittings, generally 10 days in each quarter of the year, at a heavy expense, for which he receives no remuneration whatsoever; and, moreover, if any person arrested under a decree, and sent to gaol, sheriff is bound to keep him in custody, and would be liable in case of an escape. Sub-sheriff submits some remuneration, either by fee or presentment on the county, should be substituted for these fees.

The high-sheriff has no emoluments whatsoever; the entire emoluments go to and belong to the sub-sheriff, who pays the entire expenses of the office, the expense of swearing in the high and sub-sheriff, and paying a returning-officer, keeping constantly a clerk and six bailiffs. The bailiffs are annually clothed at the expense of the sub-sheriff, in the livery of the high-sheriff, and paid for discharging the duties of the office. The judge's criers are paid 12 l. per annum by the sub-sheriff, and the discharge of the duties occupies the entire time of the sub-sheriff, who has no other mode of livelihood or rearing his family but the emoluments of the office, and which form a trifling remuneration, after deducting the expenses of the office. There has been a falling off of the fees of the office for the last three years, at least one-half; and to compare the present emoluments with those previous to the year 1830, there would be a falling off of two-thirds.

Sheriff's-office, Navan.

Henry Meredyth, High-sheriff.
William M. Ennis, Sub-sheriff.

For which small remuneration for great trouble, anxiety, and liability, the under-sheriff is obliged to give security by bond in the sum of 5,000 l.; and by the operation of the new Civil-Bill Act, 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 75, the income of the sheriff will be reduced by the amount of 100 l. per annum. It is conceived that the additional fee in ejectment decrees, under the Act alluded to, will not pay the travelling expenses necessarily incurred by attendance to give possession. The fees and emoluments of the sheriff of the county of Monaghan, for the preceding three years, have been smaller than for any similar period within the last 50 years. The reduction in amount of emoluments amount fully to three-fourths.

In this year there are three additional towns (Graigue, Mountmellick, and Mountrath,) for holding sessions, which are to be held in four towns every quarter; sixteen sessions instead of eight as heretofore, which increases the sub-sheriff's expenses 40 l. in the year.

The fee of 10 s. 6 d., allowed by the late Civil-Bill Act, for executing decrees for possession of lands, does not defray the actual expenses incurred, which average 16 s. on each decree.

On the granting of replevins under the said Civil-Bill Act, the fee of 3 s. 4 d. does not more than pay for the necessary forms required to be furnished by the sheriff. There are but few or no replevins now from the superior courts.

Robert Butler,

There was a sum of money received from the candidates to pay the expenses of the election which took place this year; but it was expended for that purpose with something trifling over what was received.

I was solicited to undertake the duties and responsibility of the office of sub-sheriff of Roscommon for the year 1834, and I requested Mr. George Hale to act in that capacity, to which he agreed. He left this country after his year ended, and I do not know now where he is, having written to him, on receiving this order from Government, to his last residence in the county Meath, but received no answer. I am therefore unable to give the details of the income and expenditure of 1834, as has been done for 1835 and 1836, but I consider I am nearly accurate in giving the average of these two years for 1834; making the income 460 l., and the expenditure and losses 294 l. 13 s. 11 d., with the addition of 100 l. to the expenditure, as Mr. Hale, living in another county, was obliged to take a house for an office in Roscommon, where he resided and kept a horse and two servants. These expenses were not charged in 1835 or 1836, the sub-sheriff having already residences in the town, and these other requisites. Mr. Hale received the entire income, and considered it quite too small as a remuneration for his time and labour. I have been out of pocket since the year 1834 above 70 l. by the office, without considering my responsibility as security for the high-sheriff, and my trouble in directing or assisting in the discharge of the duties for that year.

The loss that will result to the sheriff of Roscommon from the operation of the Act to regulate the proceedings in the civil-bill courts in Ireland, 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 75, according to what was received on civil-bill decrees in the year 1835, will amount to 124*l.* 1*s.* 5*d.* yearly.

(E. E.) Gilbert King, High-sheriff for the year 1835.

P. Fox, Sub-sheriff for the year 1835.

I was solicited to undertake the duties of the office of under-sheriff of Roscommon for the year 1835, and I procured the services of Mr. Peter Fox, to act in that situation, on my becoming his security, and directing him in the discharge of his duties. The income received from the office at the close, after paying expenses and losses, was so small, that I paid him 25*l.* 8*s.* 10*d.* out of my pocket towards lessening his expenses, which sum I lost by the year, independent of all my trouble, in directing the discharge of the duties, and my responsibility as his security.

The loss that has resulted to the sheriff of Roscommon for the year 1836, from the operation of the 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 75, I consider amounted to about 25*l.*, the fees on civil-bill decrees. The loss that will probably hereafter result will amount to about 120*l.* yearly, that sum being the amount of fees on civil-bill decrees during the year.

| 1. Fees on cap. ad satisfaciendum, fi. fa. and main incres. | 234 5 9 | 220 13 – | 255 10 – | - - The extension of the jurisdiction of the assistant-barrister by the Act of 6 & 7 Will. 4, interferes with this source of emolument, but to what probable amount it is at present impossible to say. |
| 2. Same on hab. fac. possessionem. | 55 – – | 50 – – | 45 – – | - - This source of emolument, if not altogether annihilated by the Act of the 6 & 7 Will. 4, which extends the assistant-barrister's jurisdiction, will be reduced at least three-fourths. |
| 3. Same on custodiam and elegit. | 23 3 – | 16 13 4 | - - - | - - All writs in these cases have ceased to exist since the passing of the Act of 5 & 6 Will. 4. |

| 5. Same on scire facias | 15 12 11 | 17 5 11 | 60 11 10 | - - These writs are not frequent, as they generally issue for the revival of judgments. |
| 6. Same on civil-bill decrees. | 123 7 – | 121 12 – | 92 19 – | - - This totally abolished by the Act of 6 & 7 Will. 4, and only three quarter sessions included in year 1836. |

The incidental expenses of the office I cannot give a detailed account of, never having kept any; but I think I am under the amount when I say 100 l. per annum. There are 10 quarter sessions annually, at which the sheriff must give his attendance with a competent number of bailiffs. Of these sessions four are held in Sligo, which may be generally calculated to last for 12 days each; four in Ballymote, 12 miles from Sligo, from eight to ten days each; two in Easky, distant 20 miles from Sligo, (where the sheriff's office is held), which last but three days each, there being no freeholders registered there. There are many additional expenses, such as summoning juries, publishing notices, postages, &c. &c., too numerous for insertion here.

N.B.—There are two assizes, which add considerably to the sheriff's expenses.

J. Mostyn, Under-sheriff.

The expenses attending the office were, for the most part, cash to bailiffs, summoning jurors for assizes and sessions, and their expenses attending thereat, and cash paid them for executing writs; also the sheriff's expenses attending at sessions and assizes, and travelling almost daily through the county.

There are seven baronies in the county, and a bailiff appointed for each; the livery for the bailiffs has been supplied by the high-sheriff, and that is the only expense he has been at, except preparing lunch for the grand jury.

I certify that the foregoing is a true and correct list, according to the best of my judgment and belief. Dated this 6th day of April 1837.

John Pollock, late Sub-sheriff.

Sir, Donis Hall, Carnew, 14 Feb. 1838.

I WAS sub-sheriff for 1835, but having neglected to keep an account of the fees of office in that year, it is out of my power, at this distant period, to let you know what they amounted to. On a rough calculation, and from a list of the writs I have made out, the fees amount to about 270 l. for the year, out of which heavy expenses are to be deducted for travelling, &c.; also there are many unexpected losses, which it is almost out of my power to explain. There is a salary attached to the office of 54 l. per annum, payable by the county. I do not understand what is meant by customary and legal fees. Your letter was wrongly directed, which prevented my getting it till now. I shall be happy to give any further information, on your writing to me here.

I have, &c.

To T. Drummond, Esq., Dublin Castle.

| Those are the customary or usual fees allowed on warrants issued for the arrest of the parties on such writs, (1 l. for each warrant); but this occasionally varies agreeably to the amount marked at foot of the writ, and also to the circumstances of the parties. | Amount of fees received on writs of inquiry - - - - - - - | 15 – – |
| The legal demand in every instance on the holding of the inquiry is 1*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.*; but the sheriff is generally allowed 5*l.* for the various incidental expenses in each inquiry; paying the jury, providing stationery, paying bailiffs for summoning the jury, &c. | |

| Clerk's salary - - - - - - - - - - - - - - | 40 – – |
| Returning-officer's fee - - - - - - - - - - - - | 42 – – |
| Swearing into office, and afterwards passing sheriff's account - - - | 20 – – |

The sheriff is allowed, on the execution of the green-wax process roll, one-third of the amount which he levies or for which he effects arrests under said process, and which allowance is deducted from what he levies, provided that such levy will admit thereof: for the year 1835 I forfeited 100 l. by this portion of the shrievalty duties, in consequence of the very great indigence through the country, being unable to enforce the respective amounts, and thereby leaving myself liable, and obliged to debit myself with that amount in passing my account.

It was hitherto customary to allow the sub-sheriff so much at contested elections, for the erection of booths and paying the various officers, as left a considerable remuneration for his trouble; this practice is now much abolished, but altogether, unless a contest takes place in either the years 1835 or 1837. I have had no contested elections in the county of Clare.

My experience for many years in the capacity of sub-sheriff affords me ample opportunity of observing that the legal fees are totally inadequate to remunerate the sheriff for his services. To enable me to fill the office so many years as I did, and I trust, with satisfaction, I was obliged to require a consideration from every high-sheriff, which consideration varied from 300 guineas to 100. In the year 1836 I was unable to accept of the office, therefore am unable to submit a return for that year; but in 1837, when I resumed the office, I found the return similar to that of 1835; but I was allowed by the high-sheriff a very considerable sum for accepting office, without which I could not with justice to myself and the county have done so.

14, North Earl-street, Dublin,
31 March 1838.

Edward Kenny,
Sub or Under-sheriff to Sir Lucius O'Brien, Bart., High-sheriff for 1835,
And Sub or Under-sheriff to John Martinhon, High-sheriff for 1837.

COUNTY OF DONEGAL.

INCOME, &c. of Sheriff, for the Year 1834.

THERE is no salary or emolument attached to the office of high-sheriff.

The sub-sheriff is paid by presentment, levied off the county, 100 l. Irish per annum, in lieu of all gaol fees.

He also receives 11 d. for his warrant on each civil-bill decree, which amounted in the year 1834 to about 150 l.

There are fees payable on executions and marked writs, which amounted in the year 1834 to about 200 l.; but this amount varies according to the business done.

The fees mentioned are all legal fees; and I know of no customary fees attached to the office of sheriff, except those payable by the successful candidates at elections.

CITY OF LIMERICK.

INCOME, &c., of Sheriffs, for the Year 1835.

SIR Foynes, 29 March 1838.

IT is is not in my power to furnish a Return of Sheriff's Fees, as the gentleman who filled the office with me could never be brought to an account, (and has since become a bankrupt, without returning my name in his schedule, although owing me a large sum); consequently, I have never been able to ascertain the amount of fees received, or the expenses incurred, particularly after so long a period having elapsed.

| Clerk's salary, stationery, printing, &c., about | 35 | – | – |
| £. | 239 | 10 | – |

I cannot calculate the diminution of income which will result from the operation of the 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 75, but I should think it will lessen the emoluments of the office from 70 l. to 90 l. a year.

The high-sheriff has to pay sundry expenses for liveries, attending the judges, assizes, and lodgings, which expenses, I should suppose, would amount to about 130 l. or 150 l.; and the high-sheriff has generally to pay the sub-sheriff from 80 l. to 100 l. for discharging the duties of the office, otherwise this county would not be worth the acceptance of a sub-sheriff.

SLIGO MAGISTRATES.

RETURN to an ORDER of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 23 November 1837;—for,

COPY of a MEMORIAL forwarded to the LORD LIEUTENANT of Ireland from certain MAGISTRATES of the County of Sligo, and others, impugning the Conduct of Major Browne (Government Magistrate) during the late contested Election for that County, with the Signatures attached thereto.

Also, COPY of the REPORT of the TRIBUNAL to which the Investigation founded thereupon was entrusted; together with the DECISION of the LORD LIEUTENANT, as communicated in a Letter signed by Mr. Under-Secretary Drummond.

TO His Excellency Constantine Earl Mulgrave, Lord Lieutenant-General and General Governor of Ireland.

THE MEMORIAL of the undersigned Electors and Inhabitants of the County and Borough of Sligo,

Humbly Showeth,

THAT an election of two Members to serve in the Imperial Parliament for the county of Sligo was held on the 12th day of August last at the County Court-house, in the town of Sligo, and on that occasion that four persons were proposed as candidates for the representation of the county, and that a contest ensued; that, during the time such contest continued, large numbers of the friends and supporters of the respective candidates came from all parts of the county, and were, during the hours of polling, assembled in large numbers about the Court-house and tally-rooms of the candidates, all of which were in the same neighbourhood; that the preservation of the public peace was entrusted to three stipendiary magistrates, who had a considerable force of cavalry, infantry, and police under their command, and that the principal part of this force was assembled in the neighbourhood of the Court-house during the time of polling:

That on the 14th day of August, being the second day of the election and first day of taking the poll, a charge was made by a considerable number of dragoons, under the command of Major Browne, S. M., on a large concourse of people assembled opposite Mr. Jones's tally-room, and on that occasion severe wounds were inflicted on several persons by the sabres of the soldiers and the trampling of their horses, by some of which the lives of the sufferers were endangered:

That many other persons were grievously injured by the pressure and rush of the crowd escaping from the violence and impetuosity of the attack made by the military; that this charge of dragoons was so sudden and unexpected, that those who stood close beside them and Major Browne had no conception that any violent interference on the part of the military would have been ordered, and in consequence did not provide for their own safety by going away:

Your Memorialists emphatically state that no violence or riot then occurred on the part of the people which could justify the charge of dragoons, by which considerable bloodshed was occasioned and the lives of many of Her Majesty's subjects endangered; that at the election of a Member for this borough, which had taken place a few days previously, Messrs. Crossley and Blake, special magistrates, preserved the public peace without any force being resorted to or any riot occurring, though equal excitement prevailed at both elections:

That Major Browne ordered the dragoons to charge on his own responsibility, and did not consult with the other stipendiary magistrates on that occasion, though he had more recently arrived; that some short time before this charge was made, Major Browne was in the committee-rooms of Colonel Perceval, the candidate immediately in opposition to Mr. Jones, and was in the constant habit of frequenting these rooms, and that several of the dragoons in the presence and view of many gentlemen (two of whom, Messrs. Myles M'Donnell and Martin D. Manning, are magistrates) were, from the windows of these same rooms, supplied with wine and ardent spirits, and that they must have been labouring under excitement occasioned thereby when they inflicted these wounds on the people:

That this unfortunate occurrence has created great excitement and general indignation throughout this county, and has a strong tendency to weaken amongst the lower classes that confidence in the impartial administration of the laws which will best restrain any tendency to their violation:

It is also generally supposed that this charge on the people was ordered by Major Browne, for the purpose of intimidating the friends of Mr. Jones, and influencing the result of the election:

Your Memorialists would therefore respectfully submit to your Excellency's consideration, that an investigation is most imperatively called for, and is due both to the character of Major Browne and to the people of this county whose safety has been endangered, and whose feelings have (in your Memorialists' opinion) been grievously outraged, and the free exercise of the franchise interfered with. This application to your Excellency would have been earlier made by Memorialists, but that your Memorialists supposed that a similar application had been made by the High Sheriff of this county immediately after the election, and acceded to by your Excellency.

Your Memorialists therefore pray your Excellency would be pleased to order that a public inquiry should be forthwith instituted into the above occurrence and the circumstances connected therewith, and your Memorialists will ever pray.

I HEREWITH submit the proceedings of the investigation held at Sligo into the conduct of Major Browne; the proceedings commenced on the 16th of October, and were continued by adjournment to the 20th of October inclusive. A rough sketch, called "A Map of Old Market Street," is annexed to the proceedings, as it is that which was shown to the witnesses when they gave their evidence. I attach also a paper of distances, as measured by a person whom I employed for that purpose, which was shown to the counsel on both sides.

DECISION OF THE LORD LIEUTENANT.

10 November 1837.

HIS Excellency has read and carefully considered all the evidence given upon the investigation, which he had directed to be held by Colonel Shaw Kennedy, into several charges preferred in a memorial from certain electors of the county of Sligo, against Major Browne, for his conduct during the late election for that county.

His Excellency does not find in any part of the report any evidence in the slightest degree affecting that high character for the strictest impartiality in the discharge of his duties, which, at various contested elections and upon other trying trying occasions, Major Browne has hitherto maintained, with the uniform confidence of persons of all parties, and with the frequently expressed approbation of his Excellency himself.

With respect to the movement of troops commanded by him on the morning of the 14th August, his Excellency remarks, that it seems generally admitted that, at that moment, some movement was necessary, and his Excellency is disposed to take into consideration the peculiar urgency of immediate interference, where the object is not merely to disperse one riotous assemblage, but to prevent impending collision between two hostile and exasperated bodies of people, his Excellency, therefore, sees no reason to question the use, under such pressing circumstances, made of the discretion vested in Major Browne by virtue of his office.

His Excellency is not disposed to regret that such an inquiry should have been held into this unfortunate occurrence, which had naturally excited considerable sensation, and the justification of which must depend upon an accurate explanation, and a due understanding of the peculiar circumstances of the moment; but he certainly would have been better pleased, had it not appeared in evidence that individuals had attached their signatures to a memorial containing charges most seriously affecting the character of a public officer, not only without previously examining into the truth of those charges, but without even informing themselves of what they consisted, by reading the memorial to which their names are annexed.

By his Excellency's command,

RETURN to an ORDER of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 12 December 1837;—for,

A RETURN of all REPORTS of OUTRAGES made to the Inspector-General of Police by the Constabulary Officers, during the late Elections for the County and Borough of Sligo.

DETAIL of OUTRAGES perpetrated in the Town and Vicinity of Sligo, during the period of the Canvass and Contest at the late Elections for the Town and County, as reported to the Constabulary Office.

1837: July 24th.—At about 12 o'clock on this night, as Mr. John Anderson's dray was conveying beer to Geevagh, it was attacked, about two miles from the town, by a large mob, who broke the beer-vessels, and assaulted the driver.

July 25th.—As Dadwell Palmer, Esq., was coming into Sligo, about one mile from the town, on the road leading to Ballisodare, he was attacked by a mob, who insisted on his crying out, "Huzza for Somers!" which Mr. Palmer refusing to do, the mob inflicted on him several severe blows with their sticks; and the driver of the post-car upon which Mr. Palmer travelled attempting to drive the horse forward, he was struck with a stone in the mouth, which knocked out two of his teeth.

July 29th.—The windows of the Strand-hill school-house were broken on the night of this day; and on the following morning (Sunday), whilst the Rev. Mr. Handcock was officiating at Divine service in the same school-house, a large number of riotous persons assembled opposite the door, and created a great tumult, as it is supposed, to disturb the congregation.

August 2d.—As Abraham Dobbin, Esq., was coming into town with one of his workmen, whom he was taking to the poll, he was attacked, about two miles and a half from the town, on the road leading to Manorhamilton, by six men, who pulled him out of his gig; one of the party then presented a pistol at him; the remainder of the party then seized the workman, and compelled him to go along with them.

August 3d.—As Colonel Perceval was entering the court-house, in company with Captain Fawcett, a man in the crowd assaulted him, and contrived to trip him in the gateway; the man was taken into custody, and afterwards liberated.

August 6th.—On the night of this day, the dwelling-house of Mr. Martin Geraghty, of George-street, was attacked by a desperate mob, who broke the upper and lower windows of the house to atoms. Geraghty's family fortunately were not injured, although the bed upon which his children lay was situated directly opposite one of the broken windows, and above the bed, upon the plastering of the walls, marks of the stones which had been flung in were visible.

[The borough election having terminated on the 5th, the excitement was so much allayed that no outrage took place between that and the 12th of August.]

August 12th.—The windows of the following inhabitants were broken, viz.: John Shannon, of Mount-street; Thomas Wright, of Charles-street; Robert Walker, of Pound-street.

August 13th.—James Devany and Thomas Teeny, of Scanden, were sworn by a mob not to work for James Crawford.

Several houses in the neighbourhood were also visited by them, and the proprietors sworn not to work for that individual.

The windows of Robert Walker, of Pound-street, were again broken; and the windows likewise of Eleanor Mullen, of Knox-street.

Two carts of salt, the property of Mr. Hugh Leighton, a merchant, were scattered by the mob.

August 15th.—Rev. Mr. Bates, Baptist minister, and his wife, coming into town in a gig, were attacked, and the former severely beaten; the latter escaped by taking refuge in the house of a priest.

RETURN to an ORDER of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 9 March 1838;—for,

SIR, Dublin Castle, 1 March 1838.

HAVING communicated to the Lord Lieutenant that you considered yourself bound, in the event of your being selected to fill the office of High Sheriff for Sligo, to nominate Mr. Colgan your Sub-sheriff, I am directed to acquaint you, that having placed yourself under this obligation, his Excellency regrets it is not in his power to confirm your appointment to the shrievalty.

Although his Excellency does not deem it necessary, generally, to interfere with the discretion vested by law in the High Sheriff to appoint his subordinate officers, yet when a case is brought before him in which a reasonable objection is shown to the selection of a particular individual for the office of Sub-sheriff, his Excellency deems it his duty to interpose, and, if need be, prevent such appointment. A Sub-sheriff has most important functions to discharge. The almost absolute selection of juries is in his hands; and, practically, he possesses the right to call out the military and constabulary. In the exercise of these very extensive powers, much firmness, discretion, and impartiality are required. There are, indeed, few offices which require the possession of such qualities to a greater degree.

In the present case it is admitted that Mr. Colgan is an apprentice to an attorney; and his Excellency cannot regard a person so situated, and who, in fact, is not a free agent, as fit to be placed in a situation of so much responsibility.

If, consistently with his sense of public duty, his Excellency could have sanctioned your proposed appointment of Mr. Colgan, he is aware that, in nominating you High Sheriff, with that gentleman as your Sub-sheriff, he should have placed these offices in the hands of persons on whose attachment to his government he might firmly rely; but, in deciding on this question, his Excellency could not allow his determination to be influenced by considerations of a political nature.

Under these circumstances, his Excellency regrets that he cannot avail himself of your services as High Sheriff for the ensuing year.

I have, &c.

Edward Howley, Esq. (signed) T. Drummond.

TIPPERARY COUNTY.

Return to an Order of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 3 August 1838;—for,

A COPY of the CORRESPONDENCE which has recently taken place between Her MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT and the MAGISTRATES of the County of Tipperary, relative to the disturbed state of that County.

Dublin Castle, 9 August 1838. (True copy.) T. Drummond.

To his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant and Governor-general of Ireland, &c. &c. &c.

Cashel, 7 April 1838.

WE, the undersigned magistrates of the county of Tipperary, this day assembled at Cashel, at a very short notice, beg leave respectfully to state to your Excellency, that it is with feelings of the deepest horror we communicate to your Excellency the dreadful and atrocious attack made by some villains upon the lives of Samuel Cooper, Esq., J. P., Austin Cooper, Esq. and Francis Wayland, Esq., on the 5th day of April.

It appears that these gentlemen were proceeding to the fair of Tipperary on that day, the two Mr. Coopers in a gig, and Mr. Wayland on horseback, when they were fired upon by four men; Mr. Samuel Cooper and Mr. Wayland returned the fire, but it is horrifying to relate that Mr. Austin Cooper was shot dead by a ball passing through his head, and Mr. Wayland was severely wounded in the hip.

There are circumstances connected with these horrible facts illustrative of the state of society in this county, which we, the undersigned, deem it our duty to represent to your Excellency.

It appears that it was known for some time previous to this attack, that it was the intention of the miscreants of the country to assassinate these two gentlemen; that a committee of villains had met and determined on the death of Mr. Austin Cooper; that his friends had warned him repeatedly of his danger; yet, notwithstanding the precautions he took, he was unable to avoid the fate to which he had been doomed. Mr. Wayland's house was attacked a few days previous with the intention of shooting him.

Comment upon these events we feel to be unnecessary. We beg leave to state to your Excellency, that the large additional force of police and military ordered into these districts, in consequence of the memorial addressed to your Excellency by the magistrates assembled at Tipperary last November, has not been productive of those effects which your Excellency then calculated upon.

This scene of slaughter occurred in the barony of Kilnemanagh, on the borders of the barony of Clanwilliam. The magistrates at that meeting declared that neither life nor property was safe in that part of the country. We, the undersigned, declare, that in that district neither life or property is safe; we therefore respectfully trust that your Excellency will put in force the strongest powers which the laws of the land permit in those districts.

We consider it our duty to state to your Excellency, that we believe the result of the late assizes for this county has proved how terrible is the state of intimidation which exists, or seems to exist, among the juries of this county, an effect which the Crown can at all times prevent by again resorting to the old and wholesome practice of challenging, which, properly acted on, would be productive of the best effects.

We beg leave respectfully to hope that Her Majesty's Government will bring in a Bill to Parliament for the purpose of inflicting a heavier penalty than that now in force on persons for having unregistered arms or ammunition in their possession. We also recommend that licenses granted for keeping arms be renewed annually, and that additional powers for searching for arms be given to magistrates.

My Lord, Dublin Castle, 18 April 1838.

I am commanded by the Lord Lieutenant to acknowledge the memorial of several magistrates of the county of Tipperary, assembled at Cashel on the 7th instant.

His Excellency heard with the deepest concern of the lamentable occurrence to which the magistrates have called his attention, and has not failed to direct the most prompt and vigorous measures to be adopted with a view to bring to justice the perpetrators of so atrocious an act. His Excellency has reason to hope that these measures will be speedily attended with success.

His Excellency will not now notice the other topics contained in the memorial, further than to observe, that he deems them deserving the most serious attention. They are so much at variance with the official information which has come to his knowledge, that he considers it necessary to institute an immediate and careful inquiry, with a view to ascertain, in the clearest manner, the actual extent of the evils which the magistrates represent to exist, and, so far as may be possible, the immediate causes to which they may be attributed.

When his Excellency has received the information which he expects to derive from such inquiry, he will communicate fully to the magistrates his opinion as to any steps which he may in consequence deem it his duty to adopt or recommend.

I have, &c.

The Earl of Donoughmore, &c. &c. &c. (signed) T. Drummond.

My Lord, Dublin Castle, 22 May 1838.

In the communication of the 18th of April, which I had the honour to make to your Lordship by command of the Lord Lieutenant, in reference to the memorial of several magistrates of the county of Tipperary, your Lordship was informed that his Excellency considered it necessary to institute an immediate and careful inquiry, with a view to ascertain, in the clearest manner, the actual extent of the evils which the magistrates represented to exist, and, so far as might be possible, the immediate causes to which such evils might be attributed; and that when his Excellency had received the information which he expected to derive from such inquiry, he would communicate fully to the magistrates his opinion as to any steps which he might in consequence deem it his duty to adopt or recommend.

Before proceeding to state to your Lordship the nature and result of that inquiry, I am directed by his Excellency to observe, that he certainly read with great surprise the statement put forth by the memorialists, in which they declare that the juries of their county act under a feeling of terrible intimidation, and refer to the proceedings at the last assizes for proof of that assertion. For the first time since the government of Ireland was entrusted to his Excellency, had such a statement been made to him, and his Excellency found great difficulty in believing that, if such a state of things had existence, no report of it should have reached him from any of the numerous public officers engaged in the administration of justice, under whose cognizance it must necessarily have come in the performance of their duties; nor could his Excellency suppose that a matter of so much moment, so vitally affecting the administration of the law, and the consequent security of life and property, should not have become known to the judges in their intercourse on their respective circuits, not only with grand jurors and magistrates, but with sheriffs and other ministerial officers, or indeed could have escaped the discernment of those learned persons themselves while presiding at the trials of offenders.

His Excellency could not for a moment doubt that, if any of the officers of the executive, or any of the learned persons to whom he has alluded, had witnessed, or even heard on credible authority, that juries had ceased to be capable of discharging their important functions, from the apprehension of danger, he would at once have brought so serious a matter under the immediate notice of the government.

Though no such statement had been made to the executive, his Excellency, nevertheless, in deference to the representation made by the memorialists, and with a desire that a matter so serious should not rest in vague conjecture, or on opinion not sustained by facts, deemed it his duty to direct, among other inquiries, letters to be addressed to the several stipendiary magistrates of the county, calling upon them to state whether any and what instances of injury to the persons or property of jurors had come under their observation, which could be distinctly attributed to verdicts given by such jurors. In the answers received from all these gentlemen, they uniformly declare that not a single instance of the kind has ever occurred to their knowledge.

Major Carter says:—"There are no records of such events in this district; and occurrences of that nature could not have passed my observation, or that of the sub-inspector, formerly chief constable for 27 years, with whom I have conversed on this subject."

Mr. Willcocks:—"I am not aware of any instances of injury to the person or property of any juror, distinctly attributable to any verdict which he may have given."

Mr. Vokes:—"I do not remember an instance in any county where a juror was injured on account of any verdict he may have given."

Mr. Singleton:—"No instance of the sort at any time came under my observation."

Mr.

Mr. Tabuteau :—" No instance of the kind has come under my observation, nor has any complaint been made or information given to me of any juror having in any way suffered for any act done by him in the execution of his duty as a juror."

Captain Duff :—" None such have come under my observation, and I may safely add that none could have occurred in this district without coming to my knowledge, or that of the chief constable, whom I have questioned on the subject."

Captain Nangle :—" In no instance that has ever come under my observation has any juror suffered injury attributable to any verdict he may have given."

His Excellency also directed a similar communication to be made to the Crown solicitor of the circuit, and has received from that officer the answer that—

" No case of the kind has come within the knowledge of the Crown solicitor."

In reply to a similar communication to Mr. Barrington, Crown solicitor of the Munster circuit, three out of the four counties of which adjoin Tipperary, he states,—

" No instance has occurred on the Munster circuit, while I have been Crown solicitor (now nearly 25 years), of injury suffered by any person in consequence of having found a verdict of conviction in any case."

As the magistrates referred to the result of the last assizes, his Excellency deemed it proper to inquire particularly into what occurred on that occasion, in reference to that class of cases with respect to which intimidation, if it had at all existed, would have been most likely to operate, and his Excellency called for such information as would enable him to compare the result of the trials which then took place with those for similar offences at former assizes in the same county. The following Table shows the result:—

| | Number of Cases of Homicide prosecuted and tried. | RESULTS OF THE TRIALS. | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | Number of Cases in which the Jury convicted. | Number of Cases in which the Jury acquitted. | Number of Cases in which the Jury disagreed. |
| 1834 - - Spring - | 18 | 11 | 7 | – |
| „ - - Summer - | 20 | 10 | 10 | – |
| 1835 - - Spring - | 22 | 12 | 10 | – |
| „ - - Summer - | 15 | 11 | 4 | – |
| 1836 - - Spring - | 25 | 18 | 7 | – |
| „ - - Summer - | 20 | 10 | 10 | – |
| 1837 - - Spring - | 30 | 16 | 14 | – |
| „ - - Summer - | 17 | 8 | 7 | 2 |
| 1838 - - Spring - | 25 | 12 | 12 | 1 |

It thus appears that at the last assizes the proportion of convictions to acquittals was precisely the same as at the summer assizes of 1834 and 1836, the convictions and acquittals being exactly equal in number, and that the result was nearly similar at the spring assizes of 1836 and at the spring and summer assizes of 1837. It further appears that, while at the spring assizes of 1834 the proportion of convictions to acquittals was as 11 to 7, the proportion was diminished to an equality at the summer assizes of the same year; and that, while at the spring assizes of 1836 the proportion of convictions to acquittals was as 18 to 7, they were at the next assizes again exactly equal.

It appears also, that, while at the last summer assizes the juries disagreed in two cases of homicide, one instance only of such disagreement occurred at the spring assizes of this year.

Results varying so considerably within very short intervals of time lead naturally to the conclusion that, in Tipperary, as in other places, the issue of trials in convictions and acquittals is produced, not by the increased or diminished virtue or infirmity of jurors, but by those varying, complex and often accidental causes, against which no vigilance can guard, and which operate in every country and in every condition of society.

His Excellency finds, on referring to the two northern circuits, that the proportion of acquittals to convictions in cases of homicide has been considerably greater within the same period.

His Excellency has also obtained a return of the several juries at the last assizes of Tipperary, and he finds that the great majority of the jurors resided in towns, chiefly in Clonmel, and therefore were not likely to be influenced by apprehensions of danger to person or property; and further, on examining the list, it has been found that, of the 100 jurors who constituted the juries in the several cases of homicide, 52 served both on convicting and acquitting juries, 30 on convicting juries only, and 18 only on acquitting juries.

His Excellency also felt it his duty to refer the statement of the memorialists to the judge who presided at the last assizes, and his Excellency has received a reply from that learned person, of which the following is an extract:—

" It did not appear to me there existed any grounds, either of fact or inference, for apprehending that the juries were intimidated; on the contrary, I considered they discharged their duties free from any bias arising from personal apprehension or any other cause; and, with regard to their verdicts, they uniformly received and acted upon the legal character of the crime as laid down by the court, at the same time exercising their own judgments, as in their exclusive province, upon the credit to which they considered the witnesses were entitled."

With such facts and evidence before him, his Excellency is wholly at a loss to understand on what grounds the memorialists have asserted that the juries at the late assizes acted under "terrible intimidation." His Excellency cannot but think, that, in putting forth a statement, unsustained by proof, so deeply affecting the administration of justice, and so seriously impugning the acts of men who appear to have faithfully and fearlessly discharged their responsible duties, according to their oaths, the memorialists have been influenced rather by the excitement prevailing at the time of their meeting, and naturally produced by horror at the atrocious crime just then perpetrated, than by that due and calm consideration which such a subject requires, and which, under other circumstances, they would doubtless have given to it.

The magistrates suggest a remedy for the supposed intimidation, in a recurrence to what they term "the old and wholesome practice of challenging." As the evil appears to have no existence, his Excellency might have deemed it unnecessary to advert to that part of the memorial; but, as it would seem that the present course of proceeding with regard to challenging on the part of the Crown is not perfectly understood by the memorialists, and as it is important that it should be generally known, his Excellency thinks it right to explain to them what the actual directions are by which the Crown prosecutors are governed in this respect.

The privilege of setting aside jurors has not been abandoned, as the memorialists seem to think; but the exercise of it is strictly confined to cases in which those concerned in the conducting of Crown prosecutions can upon their responsibility say, that just grounds of objection exist to any individual called on the jury; the direction of the law officers of the Crown being express, that no man shall be objected to merely on the ground of his religion or his politics. His Excellency entirely concurs in the wisdom and justice of that course, and he has not heard of a single fact that would lead him to conclude that the ends of justice would be advanced by the adoption of any other practice.

His Excellency has no reason for believing that the recurrence from time to time of serious outrages in the county of Tipperary is justly to be ascribed to the existing state of the law, or the manner in which it is administered.

The government has been at all times ready to afford the utmost aid in its power to suppress disturbance and crime; and its efforts have been successful, so far as regards open violations of the law. Faction fights and riots at fairs, which were generally of a very ferocious character and the fruitful source of much subsequent crime, have been to a very great degree suppressed, though heretofore most commonly suffered to pass unchecked and unpunished; but there are certain classes of crime, originating in other causes, which are much more difficult of repression. The utmost exertion of vigilance and precaution cannot always effectually guard against them; and it becomes of importance to consider the causes which have led to a state of society so much to be deplored, with a view to ascertain whether any corrective means are in the immediate power of the government or the legislature. When the character of the great majority of serious outrages occurring in many parts of Ireland, though unhappily most frequent in Tipperary, is considered, it is impossible to doubt that the causes from which they mainly spring are connected with the tenure and occupation of land. But his Excellency feels that it would be quite beyond the limits and not consistent with the character of a communication of this nature, either to enter into an examination of the lamentably destitute condition of a cottier tenantry possessing no adequate means of continuous support, or to advert in detail to the objects for which the formation of such a class was originally either permitted or directly encouraged. If, from political changes or the improvements in modern husbandry, these objects are not any longer to be attained by the continuance of such a state of things, his Excellency conceives that it may become matter of serious question whether the proprietors of the soil are not, in many instances, attempting too rapidly to retrace their steps, when he finds the fact to be, from returns furnished by the clerk of the peace for Tipperary, that the number of ejectments in 1837 is not less than double the number in 1833. The deficiency of a demand for labour, and the want, as yet, of any legal provision against utter destitution, leave this humble class, when ejected, without any certain protection against actual starvation. Hence the wholesale expulsion of cottier tenants from their holdings is, unfortunately, found with the great body of the people to enlist the strongest feelings, those of self-preservation, on the side even of guilt, in vindication of what they falsely assume to be their rights; and hence a sympathy for persons charged with crimes supposed to have arisen from those causes is still found a lamentable exception to that increased general respect for the laws which has of late years been remarked with satisfaction by those concerned in the administration of justice.

Property has its duties as well as its rights; to the neglect of those duties in times past is mainly to be ascribed that diseased state of society in which such crimes take their rise; and it is not in the enactment or enforcement of statutes of extraordinary severity, but chiefly in the better and more faithful performance of those duties, and the more enlightened and humane exercise of those rights, that a permanent remedy for such disorders is to be sought.

Whatever

Whatever a government can do to protect the rights which the law has conferred, and to suppress violence and crime, from whatever cause arising, his Excellency, as head of the executive, will direct and enforce; but his Excellency firmly believes, that the end so earnestly to be desired will be more speedily and effectually attained by the vigorous administration of the ordinary laws than by the adoption of any more rigorous measures. The experience of the past confirms and justifies that belief. When it was reported last November that a spirit of intimidation and violence had manifested itself in the barony of Clanwilliam and certain portions of the adjoining baronies, his Excellency, after duly weighing the representations of the magistrates, who on that occasion urged that the country should be proclaimed, came to the conclusion that the ordinary powers of the law would be found sufficient to meet the exigency.

He directed the constabulary to be strengthened, military detachments to patrol the district, and stipendiary magistrates to superintend their proceedings; several persons were arrested, and have either been brought to trial at the last assizes, or are now awaiting their trial at the next.

In the course of a short time it was reported that the symptoms of disturbance had disappeared. The cavalry which had been sent into the district were withdrawn upon the favourable reports of the military authorities, confirmed by the magistrates; the detachments of infantry and extra force of constabulary being, by way of precaution, still retained. It was therefore with some surprise that his Excellency read in the memorial of the magistrates the following statement, in reference to these measures and their results:—

"We beg leave to state to your Excellency that the large additional force of police and military ordered into these districts, in consequence of the memorial addressed to your Excellency by the magistrates assembled at Tipperary last November, has not been productive of those effects which your Excellency then calculated upon."

In contrast to that statement it appears by a report of Mr. Willcocks, on the barony of Clanwilliam, the district to which the special attention of the government was directed in consequence of the memorial alluded to, that in the only case of serious outrage, the homicide of James Hayes, which occurred between the 8th of January and the 16th April, the date of the report, the perpetrators were arrested and made amenable on the same day. Reports of the state of the adjacent districts, of an equally favourable character, were also received from Captain Nangle and Mr. Singleton; and the latter, who had been sent to Cappawhite in December, having reported that his services were no longer required in that district, was directed to return to his station on the 21st of February.

His Excellency has also been informed by Judge Moore, that applications were made to him when on the bench at the last assizes, by persons acting on behalf of three very extensive proprietors of the county, whose tenants were under charges of opposing the law and disturbing the peace, viz. Lords Glengall, Hawarden, and Lismore; the substance of which applications was, to pray him not to permit the proceedings against those persons to be brought forward, and to have the charges against them abandoned; and that the grounds on which those gentlemen mainly urged the judge to comply with their respective applications were, the tranquil state of the several parts of the county in which those criminal occurrences had taken place, and the good effect which his compliance would have in the country. The judge added, that those applications which regarded the tenants of the two first-named noble lords were made by letters addressed to him in court, and that in the other instance the application was personal but strongly pressed.

With such facts before him, his Excellency, with all respect for the opinion of the memorialists, must still believe that the proceedings which he then directed were in the main effectual, and that the adoption of those measures of severity, which are at variance with the general spirit of our laws, and are only intended to meet extraordinary emergencies, was not called for on that occasion.

His Excellency has given, and will continue to give, to the improvement of the administration of the laws his most anxious consideration, and will willingly receive and carefully examine any suggestions offered to him with that view.

His Excellency is encouraged to hope, by what has been effected under circumstances of much difficulty, that more may be accomplished. The rest must be left to time, to the faithful and diligent performance of their duties by the local magistracy, to the beneficial exercise of their rights as landlords, and to the operation of such measures of general policy as the legislature in its wisdom may adopt.
